Pa. State Grange Session Culminates With All-Granger Banquet

EXTON (Chester Co.) — In spite of heavy rains and a power outage, more than 330 Grange members gathered here at the Inn at Chester Springs Monday night for the Pennsylvania State Grange's All-Granger Banquet.

The damp weather did not dampen the Grange members' spirits as state master Betsy Huber announced the selection of the 2003 Granger of the Year.

Margaret Tau of Hayfield Grange, Crawford County, was selected this year's winner. Before calling Tau to the podium, Huber reviewed several highlights about Tau's Grange activities.

"This Granger is always one of the first to arrive at a Grange function, and one of the last to leave," said Huber.

Huber also said that besides being a Grange secretary and a community service chairperson, Tau is always recruiting other members of her Grange to help out with service projects.

Some of the projects Tau participates in are a holiday card program to the local nursing home, food drives for the local food pantry, holiday candy and cookie boxes for shut-ins, and a Bible drive for the local women's prison.

Tau, a 60-year Grange member, said, "I'm shocked. I'm honored. If you don't belong to the Grange, I don't know why you don't."

Tau also noted her Grange career began with an unusual start with a special dispensation from the state master allowing her to join her Grange at a young age since there was not a junior program at the time.

"It's been a long journey and I have loved every minute of it," said Tau in reflection of her 60 years in Grange.

The Granger of the Year is selected through a nomination process and panel of judges.

In addition to Tau's selection as Granger of the Year, Agriculture Secretary Dennis C. Wolff

Despite Some Traffic, Getting The Harvest In

TALMAGE (Lancaster Co.) — It's tough enough to harvest corn, and then you have to deal with traffic. This is a view looking south on Rt. 772 near Talmage late last week, as the harvest season begins to draw to a close. According to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service, for the week ending Oct. 26, it was a good week for fieldwork. Soil moisture was rated as 65 percent adequate and 35 percent surplus. Corn acres harvested for grain advanced to 38 percent complete, 26 percent behind last year and still 13 percent behind the five-year average. The corn crop condition was rated as 5 percent very poor, 7 percent poor, 22 percent fair, 43 percent good, and 23 percent excellent, a slight decrease as compared to the previous week because the recent wind damage became more apparent. Ninety-five percent of the corn acreage has reached the dent stage and 83 percent has reached maturity. Corn silage harvest was 92 percent complete, 7 and 6 percent behind 2002 and the five-year average, respectively.

Compared to Thursday, the bulk of the run was a full 1.00-2.00 lower on Monday. However, buyers were somewhat active on Tuesday as bids were a full 1.00-1.50 higher than the Monday sales, with the bulk of the increase on the average Choice and Select cattle. The quality of the two-day run was below average for the most part, with the exception of a few reputation fed lots. The cattle complex remains volatile early in the week. The spot October live cattle contract closed 1 50 lower on Tuesday at 100.20, with limit-down losses across the entire live cattle board. The western direct feedlots are keeping a tight grip on cattle so far this week, a few live sales have trickled in at 101.00, but movement is extremely light so far. The wind has definitely been let out of the boxed beef market's sale as Choice cuts were another 2.80-3.50 lower on Tuesday from around 170.00-173.00; Select cuts from 4.30-5.22 lower, or around 147.00-148.00. It would be a safe guess that steady would be a huge victory for cattle feeders this week with so much bearishness in the air Slaughter Holstein steers and slaughter heifers were in very light supply and a trend was not established. Lean slaughter cows sold 2.00; while fleshier cows sold 1.00 to mostly 2.00 lower, with the majority of the run between 80-90 percent lean with poorer weigh up conditions. A good run of Holstein slaughter bulls sold steady to 1.00 lower. The combined two-day run included 295 head of slaughter steers, 48 head of slaughter heifers, 471 head of slaughter cows, 26 head of slaughter bulls, and 27 head of feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1230-1475 lbs 103.00-107.00; 104.00-108.00 on Tuesday, fancier 109.00-115.00, one heavy 1500 lbs 102.00. Compared to last Thursday, slaughter steers sold mostly steady. However, when compared to the Tuesday run Choice steers were 1.00 to nearly 2.00 higher. The run included a lot of average Choice and high Select steers on Thursday, as high Choice and Prime cattle remain hard to come by. However, the market is still very good as the bulk of the supply continues to bring over 100.00. A set of 1085 lb black steers brought 92.00 on Thursday to go back on feed, the same kind of cattle last week sold for 89.00, which goes to show there is still a few people out there that have a lot of faith in this finished market. Boxed beef cutout values were down .79-1.48 on Thursday, with Choice cuts from 165.51- 167.72. Although, the lower meat market may be justified with Thanksgiving only about 4 weeks away, when traditionally consumers lean much heavier to the turkey and ham side of the meat cases; especially with the high price of red meat. There were not enough Holstein steers or slaughter heifers for a market test.

Lean slaughter cows sold mostly 1.00 to 2.00 lower; while fleshier offerings traded mostly steady to 1.50 lower than last week. The supply included 430 head of slaughter steers, 87 head of slaughter heifers, 542 head of slaughter cows, 66 head of slaughter bulls, with 277 head of feeder cattle.

Note: The New Holland Sales Stables will be holding a special feeder cattle sale on Friday October the 31st, to begin at 6 pm.

POULTRY GUARD™
LITTER AMENDMENT

New Poultry Guard™ Litter Amendment is a unique activated clay that delivers consistent ammonia control without the handling inconvenience associated with other poultry litter treatments.

Unlike these other treatments, Poultry Guard Litter Amendment is easy and convenient to apply and needs no incorporation or activation. Fewer application variables mean more consistent performance In addition, Poultry Guard can be applied up to five days before bird set, whenever it's convenient for the grower

Using Poultry Guard Litter Amendment Is As Simple As...

Apply
Simply spread over poultry litter.
- No incorporation
- No moisture activation
- No complicated instructions for heating and ventilation in conjunction with application

Bird Set
Poultry Guard can be applied when it's most convenient, up to five days before bird set.
- No application timing headaches between clean out and bird set
- No last minute application after equipment has been lowered

Control Ammonia
Poultry Guard will deliver immediate and long-term ammonia control and give birds a healthier growing environment.
- No more dangerously high levels of ammonia to stunt growth

You be the judge! We are confident this litter amendment will improve your poultry and your profits.

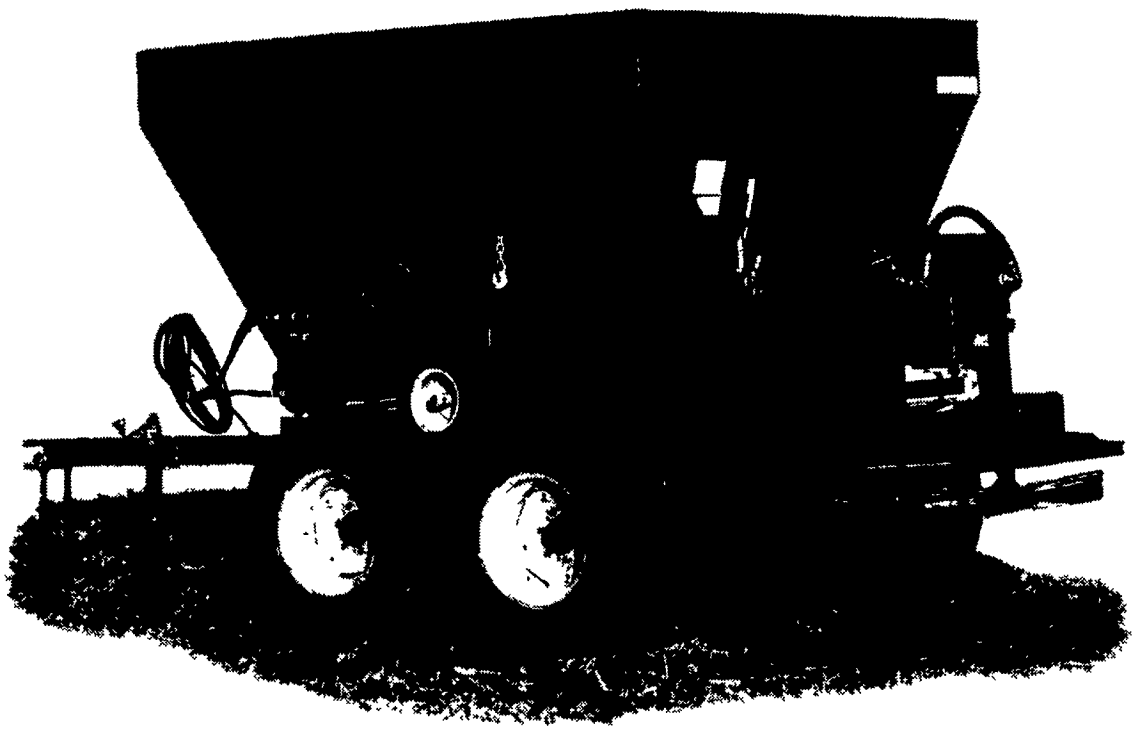
Make the 2004 Lancaster Farming Ag Directory your source of expert information from the more than $50 billion regional ag industry

It's Time To Lime!



You know how tough it is to spread wet lime. And fertilizer is too expensive to waste. Our new 56i spreader does both jobs with ease. Plus, it has no equal when it comes to spreading "sloppy" material.

Stoltzfus Spreaders have been known as unique, "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders since 1947.

- Press-wheel ground drive
- Walking-beam suspension
- Corrosion-proof steel hopper
- UHMW plastic floor
- Lime: 3 tons / acre max. Fertilizer: 125 lbs. / acre min.

Farmers are still using Stoltzfus Spreaders they've had 20 years or more. That means your investment in a versatile Stoltzfus Spreader will add up to a very smart buy indeed.

Call or write today for a free brochure and the name of the dealer nearest you.

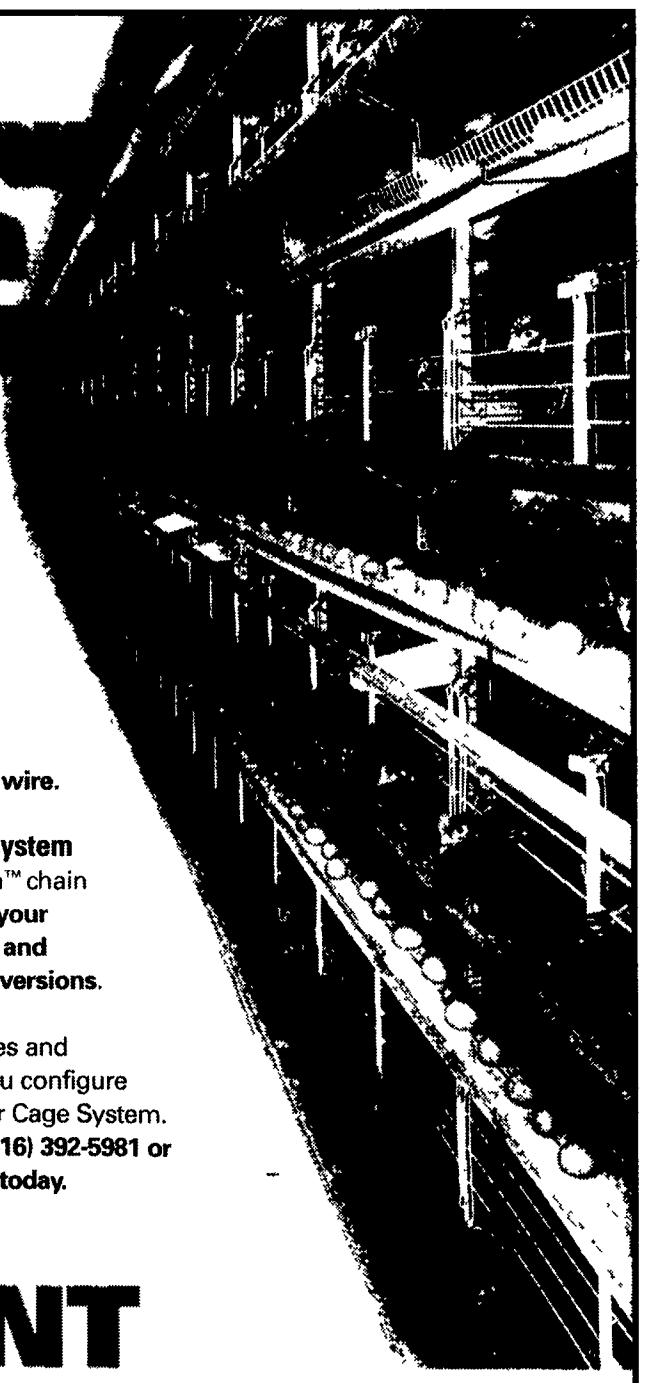
Universal — your best value in a cage system



The Big Dutchman Univent Layer Cage System is the first choice of profitable poultry producers. More than 90,000,000 birds are housed in Big Dutchman battery belt cage systems worldwide.

Efficient manure removal
Manure begins to dry on collection belts and is easily removed from the house.

Univent provides easy access and bird comfort
Doors slide horizontally across the full width of the cage, providing easy bird management.

Wire partitions assure improved air flow and bird comfort, helping birds achieve peak egg performance.

Manufactured of proven Galfan® wire
Galfan wire is coated with a combination alloy of aluminum and zinc, providing up to three times longer life than heavy galvanized wire.

The ultimate feeding system
The superior Champion™ chain feeder accommodates your management practices and helps improve feed conversions.

Let our experienced sales and service network help you configure your own Univent Layer Cage System. Call Big Dutchman at (616) 392-5981 or visit bigdutchman.com today.

OPINION

Celebrating Our Birthday

Lancaster Farming newspaper began as a small county weekly newspaper on Nov. 4, 1955. Since then, it has grown to include more than 50,000 weekly, direct-mail readers, whose numbers continue to grow.

In the 1950s, founder Robert Campbell recognized a need for a weekly farm paper that serviced the agri-economy in Lancaster County and, later on, in southeastern Pennsylvania. Demand continues for such a paper to bring the latest developments to farmers and agribusinesses, who comprise the more than $51 billion regional agricultural economy.

What sets the tabloid-size, Web-printed Lancaster Farming apart from other weekly farm newspapers is a focus on a particular kind of production agriculture, known for years to readers. Lancaster Farming is a type of high-production, maximum-use-of-acres type of farming.

However, almost as important to the reader-driven editorial is a focus on the lifestyle called agriculture. Important are the ways in which readers value the newspaper. For example, one of the most popular sections, Section B, is devoted to family living. That section includes not only recipes, but also family feature stories, special pages on antiques, questions from readers, and university extension service columnists.

Lancaster Farming speaks directly to readers at several large agriculture events, including the state Farm Show and Penn State's Ag Progress Days. Readers often point to our paper as the "Saturday Special," usually receiving their issue every Saturday by post.

What makes Lancaster Farming, at times running 200 pages, so successful is a blend of news coverage, features, farm calendar listings, and a service called Mailbox Markets.

Mailbox Market allows readers, using their mailing label, to advertise any products or services. The only restriction is that readers not

To Be Aware Of Molds, Mycotoxins In Your Silage

This year's silage crop was produced under conditions that encourage mold growth and increase the risk of mycotoxin problems, including wet weather during corn silking, insect damage to silks, and harvest following frost (resulting in forage that is drier and harder to pack).

Penn State Dairy Specialist Dr. Jud Heinrichs tells us the presence of visible mold does not necessarily mean there are mycotoxins present, and mycotoxins can be present when mold is not visible.

Cattle eating feed contaminated by mycotoxins can show a number of symptoms, including poor weight gain, reproductive problems, reduced feed intake, lowered milk production, and suppression of the immune system. Unfortunately, these symptoms could be caused by a variety of problems besides mycotoxins, which makes it difficult to diagnose or treat the problem. Dairy animals that are most at risk from mycotoxins are young calves up to several months of age, close-up cows, and early lactation cows.

If mycotoxin poisoning is suspected, test all feed ingredients including concentrates. Adding a binder ingredient (adsorbent) to the ration to inactivate the mycotoxins may reduce some animal symptoms based on some reported research. In some research, clay products such as calcium or sodium bentonite have been shown to prevent mycotoxins in feed from being absorbed into the body to a limited extent. Other ration ingredients with some research trial support that may be used to minimize the effects of mycotoxins include charcoal, fiber, aluminosilicates, and yeast cell components. Some products appear to have an effect on some toxins and not others, yet these are not consistent between studies.

It is important to understand that these products are not FDA approved and cannot be marketed for purposes of mycotoxin binding because these products have very mixed results in field testing (positive and no effects). Heinrichs recommends that you consult your dairy nutritionist when you suspect problems related to mycotoxins. Your nutritionist can direct you in testing forages and feeds for such compounds and determine what the best options appear to be for alleviating the problems in your particular herd.

To Clean Up Waste Plastic On Our Farms

Before the weather turns colder, we have an opportunity to pull up any remaining plastic mulch in our fields and recycle it. This is a good time to clean up other waste plastic on the farm, including bale wrap, silage bags, trench silo covers, plastic mulch used in horticultural production, and shrink-wrap from palletized supplies.

Burning this waste plastic in open fires is an unacceptable disposal method since it creates a tremendous amount of pollution both as particulate matter in the smoke and as petroleum by products left by this low-temperature burning.

This material is again being collected and baled in Lancaster County for use in the production of plastic lumber. The bales of recycled plastic material will be hauled to the Trex Company factory in Virginia for this purpose. There it will be mixed with waste wood chips and sawdust to produce a product for use in plastic decking.

The waste material is now being collected on at the Dan Zook farm located at 183 South Farmersville road, Leola. Any polyethylene product will be accepted which includes plastic mulch, ag bag plastic, bale wrap, silage covers, greenhouse covers, and shrink-wrap. Materials that are not acceptable include plastic twine, row covers, molded plastic such as greenhouse trays and pots, milk jugs, and pesticide or other containers.

A tipping fee will be collected when the material is delivered to the farm. The fee is approximately half of what it would cost to take the material to the municipal incinerator in Lancaster County. If you have a collection of waste plastic, take the time to remove it while this opportunity is still available. Call Dan Zook at (717) 656-4422 to make arrangements before delivering your material. This will insure you can be unloaded in a quick and efficient manner, saving time for all.

"The difference between a successful person and others is not a lack of strength, not a lack of knowledge, but rather in a lack of will."

WHO TURNED OUT THE LIGHT?

Background Scripture:
1 John 1:1 through 3:10.
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 5:1-10.

In its turn-of-the-century issue, Time Magazine listed Reinhold Niebuhr's "The Nature and Destiny of Man" as one of the most important books of the century. When first published, some critics groused that Niebuhr was overly pessimistic in concentrating on man's sinful nature. In those days, sin was not a popular topic. Today, it is rarely mentioned.

When people hear the word "sin," they think in terms of what other people do or don't do. Despite Jesus' criticism of the Pharisees, over the centuries Christianity seems to have become increasingly fixed on the pharisaical model in which sin is defined as various specific acts or failures to act. If one lives up to our codifications of sin, they are regarded as good Christians whose sins are both small and infrequent — if at all. If those codes are broken, the breakers are regarded as sinners. All of this despite Paul's reaffirmation of Psalms 14: 1,2: "There is none righteous; no, not one." (Rom. 3:10).

Although I had studied under Niebuhr at Union Theological Seminary and read a number of his books, until the year 2000 I had not ventured to read "The Nature And Destiny of Man." But, to celebrate my 70th year, I decided to tackle the more than 600 pages of these two volumes. I had never been one to blanch at the mention of "sin," but Niebuhr reawakened me to the depth and breadth of this reality.

'Nice' Is Not Enough

When we live by any set of pharisaical rules, but go no further than that, we earn the approbation of "respectability." But Jesus calls us not to respectability, but to righteousness — and there's a yawning chasm between them. Respectability may become an attainable substitute for righteousness, which, Jesus said, must exceed that of the Pharisees. We may stop there and rest on our laurels, assuming that "sinners" applies only to those who have not risen as high as we — or as high as we think we — have risen.

Respectability leads us to a false sense of self-satisfaction. But, we've all got the disease, and the worst thing is to know that we all have it. Niebuhr says, "The consciousness of sin and the consciousness of God are inextricably involved with each other." If we are truly conscious of God, then we cannot be unconscious of the chasm that lies between God and us.

What makes sin so powerful and pervasive is that often it is unconscious. We push it from our conscious minds so that we do not have to confront it. Instead of dealing with it, we may also project it outward onto others — "... first take the log out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your brother's eye" (Mt. 7:5).

Sins Of 'Good People'

Niebuhr denounced "not the visible sins of wicked people, but the invisible sins of good people." He wrote: "Not much evil is done by evil men; most of the evil is done by good men who do not know they are not good."

So we sin both as individuals and as members of communities, groups, and nations. "There is an increasing tendency among modern men," he wrote, "to imagine themselves ethical because they have delegated their vices to larger and larger groups." World War I, he said, was "made inevitable not by bad people who plotted against the peace of the world, but by good people who had given over their conscience into the keeping of their various political groups."

I think Niebuhr's words give added emphasis and depth to 1 John 1:6,8,10, "If we say we have fellowship with him while we walk in darkness, we lie and do not live according to the truth. . . . If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us . . . if we say we have not sinned. We make him a liar, and his word is not in us."

Yet, linked to the bad news of human sin is the good news of divine redemption: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just, and will forgive our sins. . . ." (1:9). Niebuhr was pessimistic about human sin, but hopeful about God's grace: "The Christian faith is primarily the assurance of a divine forgiveness toward all who do not pretend to be righteous, but know themselves to he sinners."

If you are walking in darkness, don't ask, "Who turned off the light?" You did!

2004 AG DIRECTORY

The year 2004 marks the fourth annual Lancaster Farming Ag Directory.

Looking for the experts in field and barnyard management? Looking for the leaders for crop and farm financial planning? Then you've come to the right place

For 2004, Lancaster Farming plans a new portion of the book "Call On The Experts." It's a component of our Ag Directory helpful for those seeking answers – right at your fingertips. The directory is scheduled in the Dec. 27 issue.

In 2003, the Ag Directory totaled 152 pages and was jam-packed with contact names, numbers, addresses, and even Websites from agriculture in our eight-state region, including Pennsylvania and surrounding states. The "essential" reference book will include more names, addresses, phone numbers and Web addresses than ever before.

Make the 2004 Lancaster Farming Ag Directory your source of expert information from the more than $50 billion regional ag industry.

CHEESE PRICES SHOW SIGNS Of WEAKNESS

- Barrel prices drop 2.5 cents/ pound.
- Blocks still holding.

Block cheese prices have been stuck at $1.60 per pound for the last few months. That's good for dairy farmers. But how long will that last?

Will blocks strengthen or weaken in the weeks ahead? The Chicago Mercantile Exchange futures market indicates that cheese prices will begin to weaken during the last week in October. Barrel cheese prices fell a few pennies by week's end.

American cheese production through August has been down 1.7 percent relative to a year ago. With heat stress in California and poor forage quality in the Northeast, there is no reason to believe that the U.S. milk supply, and hence cheese production, will rebound significantly this year. I'm projecting that American cheese production for September through December will remain just below year-ago levels, if that high.

Imports of American cheese through June were up just over 10 percent. However, cumulative American type cheese imports were just 40.6 million pounds, small enough not to impact U.S. supply and demand.

Commercial ending stocks for American cheese in cold storage facilities fell to 514.9 million pounds. Of that amount, 8.8 million pounds were Government owned. Thus net inventory in commercial channels was below year-ago levels.

The real indication of future cheese prices is commercial disappearance, or the amount of cheese that was consumed. By my own calculations, commercial disappearance through September for American cheese was 2.75 million pounds, or 1.6 percent below a year ago. It has trended upward the last few months, but at a rate that is still below year-ago levels.

So here are my thoughts. If demand remains sluggish and we get any milk production rebound in October through December, look for cheese prices to weaken rapidly. However, if the milk supply remains even with a year ago (as I expect it will) and demand picks up a bit, we could see cheese prices weaken very gradually. Again, it all boils down to supply and demand!

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

EDITOR'S NOTE Due to changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003.

Milk production is showing more signs of increasing in the Southeast, but steady to occasionally lower in the Northeast Cooler weather and some much needed rainfall were reported in Florida and other Southeastern states. The rain helped restart grass/pasture growth and the cooler weather eased cow comfort Milk output was increasing as far west as Texas and up into the Mid-South. The gains in the milk flow eased the need for milk in the region Colder temperatures and some early snowfalls were noted in New York and New England late last week and milk output has eased lower in some areas. The easing of the milk flow is typical for this time of year.

Bottled milk demand is fair at best. Most contacts report that Class I demand is little changed or even slower than past weeks. However, Florida is starting to see the ?early bird? winter residents start to show up and this could/should help milk sales. Milk needs in the Southeast are off slightly and they have less need for contracted milk from other regions. Therefore, interregional shipments are not as heavy as they have been The strike/lockout affecting some large retail chain stores is entering its fourth week and is barely mentioned in contacts' conversations any more. Other stores have apparently seen improved sales, which offset the losses seen in the chains that are closed/impacted by the strike Surplus milk supplies remain tight, but not quite as tight as earlier this month Some plants continue to operate on reduced schedules and others are operating as they have been for the past few weeks.

The condensed skim market is little changed. With the tight supply of surplus milk, some suppliers have had to ?out source? some loads to meet contracts There is little trading on Class III condensed skim because of price.

The fluid cream market is easing slightly and supplies, though in better balance, are still long late in the week; light to balanced early. Spot prices are mixed. Last week's CME butter average did move fractionally higher, but multiples did ease lower at the upper end of the range. Ice cream output is starting to fall into winter patterns, but output is still quite good. Cream cheese production is steady to heavier as anticipated holiday needs are being made. Production of bottled cream, egg nog, and other holiday items are just getting under way. Churning activity is mostly steady.

Blue Seal Feeds Returns To Farm Show

LONDONDERRY, N.H.— Blue Seal Feeds, Inc. returns to the Pennsylvania Farm Show this year ready to promote its agricultural wares to showgoers.

This multifaceted company has several divisions to meet the agricultural feed needs of animal producers, from the large commercial dairy farms to a person with only a few horses.

This New Hampshire-based feed company serves the entire Northeast and Mid-Atlantic region through their feed plants and independent dealers.

The Blue Seal Farm Show exhibit will feature items "geared for the farmette and small scale farm," said Paul Kempe Jr., regional sales manager.

For Kempe, the reason to exhibit at the Farm Show is obvious "The Farm Show draws people from all over the state, New Jersey, West Virginia, and New York," he said.

Kempe noted that Blue Seal's Farm Show experience has been a fairly positive one generating business for their independent feed dealer network, locally in Lancaster County as well as other areas of the state.

"(After the show,) the response was even felt in the Haggerstown (feed) plant," said Kempe.

Blue Seal carries a feed line for sheep, goat, dairy, beef, swine, poultry, and other specialty feed lines. Blue Seal is also the leading feed supplier in the horse industry, according to Kempe.

New Holland Dairy Auction Draws Crowd

Top-Selling Cow Goes To Michigan Buyer

DAVE LEFEVER

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Buyers and onlookers packed the sale barn for more than 500 dairy animals auctioned at New Holland Sales Stables' Annual Dairy Show and Sale this Wednesday.

The top-selling animal, at $5,300, was Carters-Dale Storm Candy, an EX-90, 4-year-old Holstein dry cow consigned by Donald and Harold Welk of Stonehurst Farm, Strasburg. Doug Long of Long-Haven

Lebanon County Holstein Enthusiasm Is Strong

DAVE LEFEVER

RICHLAND (Lebanon Co.) — The Lebanon County Junior Holstein Club is thriving — that was clear to anyone attending the county's recent annual Holstein banquet.

Youth were honored for their achievements this year, including notable successes in dairy quiz bowl contests at the state and national levels.

Four junior teams and three senior teams competed in at the state Holstein convention in Bethlehem last February. The junior team of Elizabeth Smith, Brendon Hoover, Austin Copenhaver, and Chris Blauch placed first in the state and went on to place second in June at the national dairy bowl contest in North Carolina. The senior team of Aaron Hoover, Janelle Zimmerman, Chanelle Horst and Nathan Heim placed second in the state.

Brad Hoover received this year's youth scholarship for his ongoing commitment to Holsteins and the dairy business.

Hoover is a second-year student at SUNY-Morrisville, New York, majoring in dairy science. He is the son of Reid and Diane Hoover, dairy producers from Lebanon.

Duane Nolt, junior club leader, was also honored for his work with the youth members.

Youth production awards winners are:

- 2-year-old milk: Kelly Reist with Ken-Joda Shark Date at 25,987 pounds of milk.
- 2-year-old fat: Kole Reist, with Ken-Joda James Muffet, at 4.3 percent and 970 pounds of fat.

• 2-year-old protein: Kelly Reist with Ken-Joda Shark Date at 3.1 percent and 817 pounds of protein.

• Brad Hoover's cows topped the 4- and 5-year old production classes. His 4-year-old Brook-Corner Storm Violeta produced 25,288 pounds of milk, 896 pounds of fat, and 711 pounds of protein. Hoover's 5-year-old, Valley-Pond Form Mark Ann produced 32,854 pounds of milk, 1,301 pounds of fat, and 1,048 pounds of protein.

On hand at the banquet were David Lentz of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association and Tony Snyder of Holstein Association USA.

Snyder reminded the group of the "Great Holstein Roundup" in which the association is asking Holstein breeders across the country to update Holstein transfer information.

"Those of you who are up to date on computers can transfer animals online," Snyder said.

David Lentz reminded the group of the upcoming Nittany Lion Fall Classic Sale Nov. 8 and next year's Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Convention Feb. 6-8 and the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention Feb. 19-21, both to take place in Greensburg.

Pennsylvania youth members have the chance to win a champion calf, to be contributed by Pennwood Farms, Somerset County. The winning raffle ticket will be picked during the junior convention.

Kirby Horst, state Holstein Director, reported that Lebanon County met membership goals in 2003. The club boasted 176 members this year, according to Ken Raney, state executive director.

To round out the evening, brothers Dan and Dave Groff, dairymen from Prescott, delighted the group with an original comedy act.

New Holland Dairy Auction

Farms, Michigan, placed the top bid by telephone.

The auction followed the annual dairy show in which Raymond Seidel judged six Holstein milking and dry cow classes and two mixed breed cow classes.

Seidel picked 4-year-old Broege-Acres Endicot Quincy as grand champion of the show. Dale Hostetter, Annville, and his family consigned the champion cow, She was purchased by Mike Bohonik of West Middlesex, Mercer County, for $3,050.

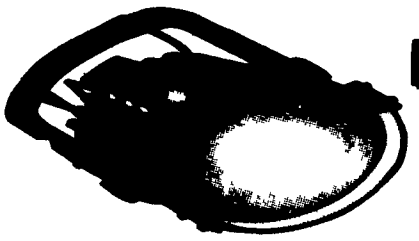
Seidel described the VG-87 champion as "a nice package from nose to tail."

Peila Brothers of New Holland consigned the reserve champion, 5-year-old Mer005 Carlton Stacy. She sold for $3,400.

The second high-seller in the auction, going for $4,000, was Ke-Hills Renegade Maid, a 3-year-old cow.

The sale also offered heifers, bulls, and calves, and included one herd consignment of 39 cows and 24 heifers.

Harold Welk leads top-selling cow, Carters-Dale Storm Candy. Long-Haven Farms of Michigan bought her for $5,300.



Farm Show 2004 Exhibitor Spotlight

Exclusive to Lancaster Farming

Look For Zartman Cow Comfort Systems At Farm Show

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Zartman Cow Comfort Systems Inc., Ephrata will be on hand once again at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January.

Cow mattresses make up the lion's share of his business, according to owner Tom Zartman.

"Mattresses are our main thing," Zartman said. The cow comfort pads are manufactured, installed, and maintained by the company.

Zartman also deals in a number of other ag products, including calf hutches, poly feed bins, foot baths, silo chute hoppers, and silo unloaders.

The company's 20-by-30-foot display in the new Expo Hall will feature products including mattresses, calf hutches, feeders, and a silo unloader.

Zartman continues exhibiting his wares at the Farm Show because "it exposes us to the farming community," he said.

"The only people we do business with are in agriculture."

Low milk prices over the past year have slowed business somewhat, but Zartman said cow mattress sales are strong.

"We're actually fairly busy with the mattresses right now," he said.

Ag Representation Needed

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — For the past 20 years, one organization has been bringing small business owners, corporate executives, manufacturers, retirees and numerous others together to address community needs.

That organization is Leadership Lancaster. More than 1,500 individuals have graduated from the nonprofit organization's Core program, which orients its participants to topics such as public education, public policy, economic development, law and justice, arts community, and health and human services.

Leadership Lancaster offers two programs, the Core class and the Executive Orientation Series (EOS). The Core class involves 120 hours of class time meeting 12 times from September to May. Participants work on community action teams and learn leadership skills that enhance performance in the workplace. In fact, skill building accounts for 40 percent of the overall curriculum. The EOS program facilitates and encourages interaction among executives and their spouses who are new to Lancaster County.

Jessica Shaub Meyer, president of Shaub Family Auction Services, Inc., is a 1997 graduate of the Core program.

Alice Yoder, Director of Community Health for Lancaster General, is also a 1997 Core class graduate, as well as a current board member. Yoder and her family live on a small farm in West Hempfield Township. She credits Leadership Lancaster with helping her to understand the county from a variety of perspectives.

Like Shaub Meyer, Yoder stresses the benefits of the diversity of Leadership Lancaster. "The diversity of the participants gives you a different perspective," she says. For Yoder, the program helped her to see how other industries affect agriculture.

Both women agree that representation from the agriculture industry would greatly benefit both Leadership Lancaster and the ag community. "It is an opportunity to bring their voice to discussions on heritage, preservation, and more," said Yoder. "But it is also the little things, like supporting roadside farm stands."

Applications to the Leadership Lancaster Core class are accepted until May 1 each year. For more information, call Nancy Neff at (717) 394-9393 or visit www.leadershiplancaster.org.

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
October 24, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week Ending Oct 24 — Total Receipts 516,900; last week 461,000, last year 445,800 Direct 46,400; last week 60,500, last year 68,200. Video/Internet 33,100, last week 17,100, last year 17,100 Auctions 436,500, last week 384,300, last year 360,500 This week's auction volume was predominantly calves with only 25 percent weighing over 600 lbs and 45 percent heifers.

Compared to last week, all classes of feeder cattle and calves sold 2 00-7 00 lower with many instances as much as 10 00 lower. Trends were very consistent and declines were just as sharp in the Southeast as they were in the Northern and Southern Plains Calf prices completely took-back last week's advances and yearlings showed their first sign of weakness in over five months. Direct trade was very light, again this week, but auction receipts were huge as many producers were evidently waiting with their trailers hooked-up for the first sign that the market's topped out

Feedlots in the five major feeding areas sold over 120,000 head of cattle 10 00-15.00 lower with the Southern Plains trading from 95 00-98 00 and the Northern Plains settling from 100.00-102 50. If market-ready supplies are as tight as advertised, why would cattle feeders accept such sharply lower bids? A fine example of one of the numerous rules of thumb in the cattle industry, "The money will run out long before the cattle do "

The CME Live Cattle Futures bounced between limit-up and limit-down this week, a continuation of the shock the market underwent when the daily limit was increased on October 15th It appears that the record-high prices are over and we'll all get to tell our grandchildren about the autumn of 2003. Sir Isaac Newton told us this would happen, but fundamentals remain strong and the futures ended the week up the limit which could mean this week was merely a hick-up or correction.

Feeder demand should receive a boost in the coming weeks as harvest is starting to wind down and many farmer-feeders prefer to buy new cattle after the first hard frost. Many Southern Plains backgrounders are already grazing lush wheat pastures, but forecasters are calling for a sharp weather change from this week's 90 degree days down to highs in the 40's for early next week. This may challenge caretakers roping skills on calves that were rushed through preconditioning to take advantage of early grazing. A 50 degree weather swing would almost be fitting for this volatile cattle market.

Slaughter Cattle Weekly Review

Oklahoma City, Okla.
October 24, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL SLAUGHTER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week Ending October 24 - Compared to last week: Initial cash trades of slaughter cattle 12.00 lower but this improving in late trade to 10.00 lower. Dressed basis sales some 20.00-22.00 lower. Demand good but light kills the past several weeks have increased the numbers of marketable cattle somewhat. Retailers are taking a wait-and-see posture. Packers and feeders are working toward a common cash market, after last weeks astounding sellers market, as pure negotiation is alive and well. Last week the market was driven by forward contracted beef sales that came due and the lifting of hedges drove the cash and futures market up. With those beef contracts fulfilled packers have returned to the spot beef market and are dealing accordingly. Boxed beef values Friday a.m. averaged 169.08 down 20.45 from last Friday. Sales of slaughter cattle on a national basis for negotiated cash trades so far are light at 120,300 head through 10:00 a.m. Friday. Last week's full count was 205,800 head.

MIDWEST DIRECT MARKETS: Steers and Heifers: Live Basis: 35-80 percent Choice, 900-1400 lbs 96.50-103.00, wtd avg 101.50. Dressed Basis: 35-80 percent Choice, 550-950 lbs 155.00-162.00, wtd avg 159.00.

Pa. State Grange Session

addressed the audience about what is happening at the agriculture department.

Wolff spoke about his "Harvest Tour," which began last Thursday.

"No matter what part of Pennsylvania you go to, it becomes very obvious how important agriculture is to the state economy," said Wolff.

Wolff also touched upon several new initiatives the agriculture department is working on.

To help increase awareness to Pennsylvania agriculture products, Wolff announced the plans for "Pennsylvania Preferred," to be unveiled at the time of the 2004 Farm Show.

"It is a way that will be branding our products that are produced here in Pennsylvania," said Wolff. "So when these products go to the marketplace, consumers will have the option to buy locally and support local agriculture."

Wolff continued to say that this program will include the entire cross section of the food supply, landscape and nursery industry, and hardwood industry.

"Any agricultural products that are grown, produced, and processed in Pennsylvania will have the opportunity to be in this program,' said Wolff.

Wolff also reviewed several education, dairy industry, agribusiness, and environmental initiatives the agriculture department has been developing.

"The Department of Agriculture is taking a little different role than it has in previous years," said Wolff in regards to his departmental initiatives.

Wolff also stated Gov. Ed Rendell administration's commitment to agriculture and awareness of agriculture's importance to economic development.

"When you think of every dollar of farm revenue turning into $10 of gross revenue in the state," said Wolff, "that's phenomenal."

Wolff's comments follow up Rendell's address last Friday where the governor spoke about several administration priorities such as property taxes and the opening of the Small Business First Loans and Machinery and Equipment Loan Funds to agriculture. Additionally, the governor said he opened the First Industry Fund to both agriculture and tourism.

Lois Steele, state community service director, praised the audience for the excellent response for the statewide service project. This year's project was a clothing drive for The Career Wardrobe, an organization that assists economically disadvantaged women trying to transition from welfare programs to work.

Grange members donated more than 1,000 items in job-interview-appropriate women's clothing.

Steele also recognized several Granges for their outstanding work in community service for 2003. Winning in the Pomona Grange category was Montour/Northumberland/Union Pomona Grange; in the local grange category under 75 members, Elkland Grange; and in the over 75 category, Perry Valley Grange.

Carl Meiss, state public relations and membership director, commended the local Granges for an excellent year in new memberships and thanked them for their hard work as he presented the membership awards.

Meiss also said that October brought a record high in monthly new membership in a recent history and gave special recognition to Middletown Grange in Berks County for 47 new members in October.

PDMP Meeting To Focus On Improving Forages

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — "Growing Forages for Milk and Money" is the topic of the next Professional Dairy Managers of Pennsylvania (PDMP) membership meeting scheduled Nov. 13 at Paul Dotterer and Sons, Inc., in Mill Hall, Clinton County.

PDMP, along with hosts Larry and John Dotterer, invite producers and agribusiness representatives from across the state to join PDMP members for a day filled with information and fellowship.

Dr. Randy Shaver, professor of dairy science, University of Wisconsin-Madison, will offer the keynote presentation: "Growing Forages for Milk and Money."

Shaver was born and raised on a western Pennsylvania dairy farm. He completed a B.S. degree in dairy science at Penn State in 1981, received a master's degree at the University of Maryland in 1982, and a doctorate degree at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1986.

Shaver's research focuses on applied nutrition of lactating dairy cattle with emphasis on carbohydrates, forages, and B-vitamins. He has been a speaker at numerous dairy conferences around the world, and has authored or coauthored 41 peer-review journal publications, 71 scientific abstracts, and more than 60 popular-press articles in industry trade magazines. He has received several awards for research and teaching excellence, including the 1991 Educator of the Year Award from the Wisconsin Forage Council.

The day will also feature workshops and tours, including a presentation on feedbunk management by Dr. Shaver. Sarah Roth of Dairy Alliance will host a display on Penn State services for custom operators. Participants will tour the Dotterers' special needs and parlor areas and their TMR operations.

Meeting sponsors are AgChoice Farm Credit, Land O'Lakes, Pennfield, Pioneer, and Purina.

The meeting will begin at 8:45 a.m. and conclude at 3 p.m. Cost to attend is $10 for PDMP members, and $50 for non-members. A catered luncheon is included. Registration is required in advance. To pre-register, contact Michele Moyer toll free at (888) 373-7232 or by e-mail at mcm14@psu.edu.

Forum Discusses Ag Trends

CHARLENE M. SHUPP ESPENSHADE
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — As American agriculture continues to change and reflect the times we live in, agriculture organizations and businesses are trying to keep pace with those changes and see where they are going.

The idea of the changing face of agriculture facilitated the roundtable discussion late last week at Agriculture Issues Forum at the Armstrong Manor, Lancaster.

More than 20 agri-industry representatives were on hand to help develop ideas on where the agriculture industry of today is heading.

"I think it is important to sit down and look at these trends with a diverse group of people," said Jan Jarret, director of outreach of Penn Future. "It gives it a validity. You can identify trends. The question is, what do you do with these trends? Do you say that is what they are and we're going to ride the tail of the trend? Or do you try and sit down with what you see and make some decisions on how you want Pennsylvania agriculture to look?"

Issues discussed ranged from agriculture consolidation, government, and globalization to niche markets, technology, and public influence.

Although several drafts still remain, hopes are that this final document will prove helpful to agriculture organizations in the decision-making on their plan of work.

For Don Robinson, Lancaster County Conservation District manager, it is important to start identifying agriculture trends.

"(Trends) drive how businesses respond to agriculture; drive education dealing with agriculture; and hopefully awaken or focus governmental officials on some of the concerns these trends represent. It can form the basis of a lot of long-term decision making."

Mike Brubaker noted that this roundtable discussion was developed from the membership looking for outside input on where agriculture in Pennsylvania and the U.S. was going.

The discussion will be continuing among members as they proceed to finalize their views on where agricultural trends lie. The resulting document will be a tool for future discussions in other agricultural organization meetings.

"I think that the document that is produced will help different forums start the conversation," said Jarrett. "It's an important one that needs to happen."

All American Jersey Show, Sale Set For Louisville

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Registered Jerseys will once again take center stage when the 51st All American Jersey Show and Sale returns to the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky., Nov. 8 to 10.

More than 700 entries are expected in the open division of the All American Jersey Show, annually ranked as one of the largest single-breed dairy shows in the world. Last year, an even 400 cows and heifers were shown.

Kevin Lutz, Lincolton, N.C., will judge the 2003 All American Jersey Show, with Dr. John Wilk, Raleigh, N.C., serving as the associate judge. Placing the 3-year-old cows in the 48th National Jersey Jug Futurity will be Terry Rawn, Charles Town, W.Va. His associate will be Dr. Katharine Knowlton, Blacksburg, Va. Larry Schirm, Columbus, Ohio, will officiate in the All American Junior Jersey Show, assisted by Dr. David Selner, Shawano, Wis.

Three sales will punctuate the show schedule over the weekend. More than 130 lots will be offered in the Pot O'Gold Sale for youth between seven and 20 years of age; the All American Jersey Sale, the premier showcase for Jersey genetics in the United States; and the All American Silent Auction, an offering of select embryos and first-choice calves. The sales are managed by Jersey Marketing Service, Reynoldsburg, Ohio.

All events will take place at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center, located near the Louisville airport.

The All American Show and Sale is an event of the American Jersey Cattle Association, Reynoldsburg, Ohio. More than 100 Jersey breeders from across the United States serve on the All American planning committees, which meet annually in March. Premium lists and entry forms are available online at www.livestockexpo.org.

Fair Association Prepares For State Convention

State Fair are delighted to have this opportunity to host the MAAFS' annual convention," said Dennis Hazzard, CFE, Delaware State Fair manager. "The approach to this year's convention is unique in many respects. It is the first time it has been held on actual fairground as well as being the first MAAFS convention to be held in another state."

Marla Calico, president of the International Association of Fairs and Expos, will present several workshops and keynote addresses, as will John Sykes, assistant manager of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. Seminar and workshop sessions will focus on keeping up with fair technology, insurance needs, and proper coverage, controlling e-coli outbreaks at fairs, and booking affordable entertainment at fairs.

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis Riley will address the fair group at its noontime luncheon on Saturday, Nov. 15, while Delaware Secretary of Agriculture Michael Scuse will speak on the "Importance of Fairs to Agriculture" at noon Friday, Nov. 14.

"We've got a great convention lineup from start to finish," said Andy Cashman, CFE, president of MAAFS. Cashman is assistant general manager of the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

This year's convention theme is "Take a Gamble on a Shore Thing" — a conceptual marriage of both the positive impact the Midway Slots has contributed to Delaware's economy and the natural beauty of the coastal area.

advertise as part of a business and that they use the label as proof of subscription.

The success of Mailbox Markets has been in building relationship between the newspaper and its readers. During these cash-strapped times, farmers appreciate an inexpensive method for buying and selling farm machinery, supplies, and many other items. It also includes a forum for ways of doing business that elevates the paper up from being a mere merchandiser.

In the 14 years I have been employed at Lancaster Farming, the staff has made many diligent attempts to fine-tune that relationship with the readers. In February 2001, we conducted a reader survey which addressed various needs of the subscribers, who wanted more auction reports. We increased our market coverage from 75 auctions per week to 115, including many feeder sales in the Virginias.

In addition, readers wanted more national news, which we have provided.

Also, readers wanted more farm family features, which we have also provided.

Readers also wanted more fair and festival stories. We added about 10 new fairs to our seasonal coverage. They wanted more sustainability articles, more columns for the new and beginning farmer, and additional items such as a "how-to" guide to farming (since then, with Penn State's assistance, we began a "Basically Farming" column).

The staff also added several new features to this Saturday Special, including more dairy coverage in our quarterly booklet, Dairy Plus. We also provide information for the horse farm manager in our four-times-per-year section called Boarder & Trainer.

More additions are planned to meet the needs of our readers, who reside throughout the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic. We've recently added two new booklets published annually: The annual Fair Guide and an annual Auctioneer Guide. New part-time and hobbyist farmers also enjoy the benefits of the weekly newspaper, and we offer news and views that help them in their enterprise.

Our writers work closely with all the agricultural colleges in our area, including Penn State and Delaware Valley College in Pennsylvania, in addition to the extensions of Cornell, Ohio State, Maryland, New Jersey, and Delaware. Even more so, our readers depend on us for our special "events-based" news coverage.

We continue to develop Lancaster Farming into a favored, highly recognizable farm newspaper. As a result, Lancaster Farming, owned by Steinman Enterprises, Lancaster, continues to see its circulation grow.

Group Adds Muscle To Farmland Preservation

RYAN ROBINSON
Special To Lancaster Farming

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Armed with a fresh poll that shows Lancaster County residents overwhelmingly support saving farms from development, a private group is launching a major new effort to preserve many more farms here.

The Oxford Foundation Inc. in Strasburg hopes to strengthen existing local preservation groups by tapping national sources for millions of dollars in funding.

"Our desire is to pick up the pace of farmland preservation," said Marilyn Ware, secretary of Oxford Foundation's board of directors. The county's efforts "belong on a national stage." Ware called current farmland preservation work by the county Agricultural Preserve Board and the private, nonprofit Lancaster Farmland Trust "superb." But with the continued pressure of new housing and business development, those groups are not preserving enough farms fast enough, she said.

Most residents polled randomly recently by Susquehanna Polling and Research Inc. agree with her. Of the 359 registered voters polled, a large majority said that they are concerned about the loss of farmland (88 percent) and that more protection of farmland is needed (79 percent). Most residents (66 percent) said the pace of growth and development is too fast, and commissioners should increase efforts to preserve farmland (61 percent).

The Oxford Foundation presented the findings of the poll to county commissioners and some commissioner candidates. Ware asked commissioners to approve a new $50 million to $100 million bond issue to pay for preserving farms — a move favored by nearly six out of 10 people who were polled.

Approving a new bond issue would show that the local commitment to farmland preservation remains strong, Ware said. The move would strengthen the county's chances of receiving additional federal matching money. Exactly how much federal money may be available for local preservation is not yet known, but Oxford Foundation Director Philip Calhoun thinks it will be "substantial."

"We are hoping to create a national momentum," said June Mengel, who will be working part time with the Oxford Foundation. "On a small scale, it would be millions, and we would hope to expand that." The Oxford Foundation will work to make that opportunity happen. It is also seeking funds from The Conservation Fund, the American Farmland Trust, the National Geographic Society, and the Chesapeake Bay Foundation.

"We're all in some way on the same team," Ware said, adding that the Oxford Foundation is committing to three years of work with the initiative. The call for funds from national sources is not falling on deaf ears.

"What place in the country is farmland more important to the economy and identity than Lancaster County," asked Ed McMahon, vice president for programs with The Conservation Fund, which is based outside Washington. "It is known throughout America. If we cannot save farmland in Lancaster County, than where can we save it?"

"We think Lancaster County could serve as a model for other counties in Pennsylvania," McMahon said. Local preservationists were obviously happy with the news of a possibility of additional funding. 'I think it is wonderful," said Rich Doenges, Agricultural Preserve Board director. "We have a significant unmet need from owners of farmland.

"The support has been very good from the commissioners, but we need more to get a chance to get into this backlog that we have."

So far, 515 farms totaling 45,348 acres have been preserved by the Agricultural Preserve Board. In addition, nine farms, amounting to 762 acres, have been approved for preservation, but the transactions have not yet been settled, Doenges said.

The Lancaster Farmland Trust has also preserved more than 10,000 acres here. Commissioner Chairman Paul Thibault acknowledged that, with funds generated by a 1999 bond soon running out, the Oxford Foundation's call for a new bond issue "comes at an opportune moment."

But, Thibault said, "I really haven't formed any opinion on it yet. We have to get new money if we're going to continue (farmland preservation) at any pace. It comes down to the age-old question of how to pay for it."

Commissioners approved a special $25 million bond issue for farmland preservation in 1999. Doenges said he expects funds from the bond will be extinguished by the end of this year. Mengel admitted it will be a challenge to pull together the funding sources needed to preserve as much of the county's 300,000 agriculturally-zoned acres as possible.

The Oxford Foundation is a private family foundation dedicated to promoting excellence in health, human services, education, early childhood development, historic and environmental preservation, arts and culture, and public policy planning.

CLEAN AND GREEN — MORE MISUNDERSTOOD THAN IT NEEDS TO BE

When a farmer wants to talk to me about Pennsylvania's Clean and Green Act and "roll-back taxes" is mentioned early in their conversation, it usually means that the farmer is facing a serious problem. He or she has done something on the farm to cause a notice from the county tax assessor demanding that he or she pay thousands of dollars additionally in rollback taxes.

When the farmer tells me about the problem, I think too often to myself that it could have easily been avoided if the farmer had some basic understanding of Clean and Green Act and had given a little thought prior to his or her action.

Many complain about how "complex" the Clean and Green Act is. But in my experience, it is not the gray areas of the law that cause farmers to be socked with rollback taxes. It is the simple and clear portions of that Act in which many farmers make costly mistakes, simply because they don't understand the basic rules and they don't make a conscious effort to assess the potential consequences of changes they make to their properties.

Landowners enrolled in clean and green can suffer a serious financial hurt if they accidentally allow rollback taxes to be triggered. But I don't believe the circumstances that trigger rollback taxes are as difficult to understand as some landowners might think.

With a reasonable awareness of the activities that are being performed on the property and a general understanding of the restrictions that are imposed on lands enrolled in clean and green, many landowners can learn to avoid the pitfalls that some unsuspecting but poorer landowners have fallen into. Certainly the tax benefits that landowners can receive from enrollment in Clean and Green are worth the effort to understand and avoid the situations that can trigger rollback tax consequences.

Let me offer several practical suggestions to help you avoid the unintended but costly triggering of rollback taxes:

• Know whether your land is enrolled in Clean and Green. You would be surprised how many landowners do not know or have forgotten that their land is enrolled in Clean and Green because the enrollment was done many years ago or was done by a prior landowner.

• If part of your land is enrolled in Clean and Green and part of your land is not, know exactly and be able to demonstrate where the boundaries between the Clean-and-Green land and non-Clean-and-Green land are. Landowners have triggered rollback taxes because they developed land they mistakenly believed was outside the Clean and Green land area. Also, the county tax assessor may seriously challenge your claim that you are developing non-Clean-and-Green land if you are not able to clearly prove it.

• Be very careful when you are considering making any changes in the use of your property. A change in use of your property or any portion of your property to one that is not authorized in the Clean and Green Act should trigger rollback taxes. If your farm is enrolled in Clean and Green as "agricultural use," any activity on clean and green land that is not related to the production of agriculture is likely to trigger roll-back taxes, even if the activity has little or no impact on your farm productivity or is performed for a short period of time. Nonfarm activities will not save you from roll-back taxes merely because other farmers may do them.

• Be very careful when you are considering operating a second business on Clean and Green land. The Clean and Green Act does not absolutely prohibit an owner of "agricultural use" land from conducting a farm market or a non-agricultural business on Clean and Green land. But there are limitations on the types of businesses that may be conducted, the amount of land that may be used, and who may operate the business. And even if you do meet these limitations, there will be a limited assessment of rollback taxes on the area you use for the business. Make sure you understand and comply with these limitations in order to avoid being socked with the highest amount of rollback taxes.

• Be very careful whenever you are considering subdividing your Clean and Green land. Some subdivisions of Clean and Green land will not trigger any rollback consequences. Some will trigger limited consequences and some will trigger serious rollback consequences. The end result will depend on how the land is subdivided. Make sure you understand the tax consequences of the subdivision you want to achieve.

• Be especially careful when you are considering subdividing small parcels of your Clean and Green land for family homes. The Clean and Green Act allows (with minor rollback consequences) land to be subdivided for residential purposes (called a "split-off"). But the rules governing these subdivisions are strict. There are limitations in the amount of land you can subdivide each year, the total amount of land that can be subdivided, and the particular uses that can be performed on lands subdivided. Make sure you understand and comply with these limitations.

• Think before you act. Many landowners have triggered rollback taxes merely because they acted without any serious thought of the limitations in land use the Clean and Green Act imposes. Any thoughts of performing an activity that is inconsistent with category of Clean and Green your land is enrolled (farming, forestry, or open space) should automatically cause you to think about the potential for rollback consequences and cause you to seek a better understanding of the likelihood that your actions will trigger rollback taxes and less costly alternatives that may be available.

AG ED RESOURCE

Long before I became secretary of agriculture, I realized the value of agricultural education. As a farmer and public servant, I recognize the quality teaching that agricultural education offers and have greatly benefited from the lessons that I learned in class. I know that there are many students who have benefited from ag ed programs as well.

Yet, there are many people — children and adults alike — that lack even the most basic concepts of agriculture. I am constantly amazed at how many people cannot tell you where milk comes from-other than from a plastic container at the local grocery store. As a leading economic enterprise in the commonwealth, a lack of knowledge about agriculture within the general public can be extremely costly to an economic infrastructure that essentially revolves around the industry.

As secretary of agriculture, I am committed to agricultural education-and this includes education to both the ag and non-ag public. When I put forth my Agricultural Education Initiative in July, I announced that we would create a Web-based agricultural education resource library. I am pleased to say that that project has been completed and is available for use.

Last week, I joined Education Secretary Vicki Philips at Dauphin County Technical School to launch Marketplace for the Mind .com (www.marketplaceforthemind.com), a groundbreaking agricultural education resource for teachers, students, the agricultural community, and the public.

The Website, created through a joint effort between the agriculture and education departments, with the support and input of many agricultural organizations and advisory boards, streamlines and consolidates the efforts of many groups dedicated to education both in and about agriculture. It is part of a multifaceted initiative being advanced by the Department of Agriculture to provide agricultural education opportunities to both school-aged children and adults.

The information contained on the site is also designed to help students achieve proficiency to fulfill state standards. The site's educational resource library contains curriculum materials aligned to state academic standards for environment and ecology and science and technology.

Educators will also be able to access grants for classroom supplies and equipment, as well as opportunities appropriate for field trips. The resource library will also provide information for students on school projects, scholarships, higher education, and careers.

The agricultural community will benefit from details on low-interest loans, technical information, and industry programming. Moreover, the general public will benefit from up-to-date agricultural information, event listings, and issues in agriculture.

The launching of this site marks the beginning of a new approach to education in and about agriculture in the commonwealth. This one site will provide efficient and convenient access to quality, agriculturally-focused teaching materials and information that can be used informally or to help students meet current teaching standards.

This site is a great step in the right direction to incorporating agriculture in the classroom and increasing understanding of agriculture in the commonwealth. I am extremely pleased that individuals outside of agriculture will be able to more easily take advantage of agricultural education lessons and become more aware of the impact the industry has on Pennsylvania's economy.

I am confident that through agricultural education we will be able to continue the strong tradition of agriculture in Pennsylvania and remain at the forefront of American agriculture. I invite you all to visit our new Website located at: www.marketplaceforthemind.com.

Beaver Farm-City Banquet Nov. 20

BEAVER (Beaver Co.) — The 48th Annual Beaver County Farm-City Banquet is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 20, at the Big Knob Grange in New Sewickley Township. This year's banquet will feature a meal produced entirely in Beaver County. Exhibits by local agricultural organizations will be open at 5:30 p.m.; dinner will be served at 6 p.m.

The Farm City Banquet originated in 1955 to provide a meaningful experience for urban and rural residents to appreciate farm and rural life in Beaver County.

This year's speaker will be John Scott, Region IV Director, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Tickets are $14 for adults and $7 for children ages 12 and under. Seating is limited and paid reservations are required. For tickets, make checks payable to "New Sewickley Kiwanis," and mail, postmarked by Nov. 13, to Penn State Cooperative Extension, 1000 Third Street, Suite 102, Beaver, PA 15009. Be sure to include a self-addressed stamped envelope to receive your tickets.

New Farmers, New Generation

Marion Bowlan

Pennsylvania Farm Link

LETTING GO

If you asked the junior generation of a multifamily farm operation what was the most important question they had in a farm transfer, nine times out of 10 they would respond, "When will I be able to take over?"

Ask the senior generation and they might say, "Do I have enough money to take care of myself until I die?"

Add dealing with the nonfarm children, an inability to let go of the control of the checkbook or the decision-making on a business they built, and you have genuine reasons why the junior generation is left wondering.

As difficult as these decisions are to address, avoiding or delaying the process only compounds the problems. Passing on the business means an ending and a beginning. With this change there is a sense of loss, an end to old ways, patterns, and ideas. The next generation will want to do things their way.

Letting go will be difficult — after all, this has been your life's work. The easier way out is to just wait around and let someone else decide.

Being reluctant to step down and turn the business that has been your life's work over to someone else, even your own children, is understandable. However, failing to make a plan for succession can have dire consequences on the family and the farm.

Letting go is not only restricted to the senior generation, the junior generation has issues, too.

So who needs to let go of what and how do we let go?

- Children need to let go of being taken care of and being children. When you are an adult, it's time to behave as one.
- Children need to let go of the idea that their parents can, should, or will treat them equally. Assisting one child in the farm business does not imply or mean that you love that child more, only that a way was found to continue with the farm operation.
- Parents need to let go of the idea that their children will run the operation just like they did. Change is inevitable, even healthy.
- Parents need to let go of the idea that they can protect their children from the uncertainty, stress, and pain in starting their own farm business.
- Everyone needs to accept each other for who they are and stop trying to change each other.
- Everyone needs to let go of trying to control the other and doing things their way.
- Everyone needs to let go of always being right.
- Families need to trust each other to deal with life the best way they know how.

Letting go can also have its rewards. You have opened the door for renewal and, we hope, viability of the farm business for the new generation. What better legacy can you leave behind?

To learn more about farm transfers, plan to attend one or more of Pennsylvania Farm Link's "Passing on the Farm" workshops scheduled this fall and winter: Nov. 18 in Meadville, Nov 20 in Shelocta, Dec. 16 in Chambersburg, Jan. 20 in Leesport, Jan. 27 in Troy, and sometime in February in the Lancaster area.

Chamber To Honor Farming Tradition

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry's Agriculture Industry Banquet is scheduled Monday, Nov. 24 at Willow Valley Resort and Conference Center at 5 p.m. Tickets for the event are available.

The theme, "Embracing Change," captures the rapid changes in today's agriculture industry and the need for professionals in this industry to embrace change to ensure continued success. Popular speaker, author, and media personality Jolene Brown will address attendees' concerns regarding how to balance traditional and modern attitudes, perspectives, methods, and marketplaces in today's fast-paced agriculture industry during her keynote presentation, "Normal Doesn't Live Here Anymore."

The event will include recognition of the outstanding accomplishments of our local agriculture community. The Chamber will honor the recipient of the George C. Delp Award, recognizing an individual who has made an outstanding contribution to Lancaster County agriculture, and the recipients of the Century Farm Award, recognizing families who have continuously operated their family farm for a hundred years or more.

Tickets for the banquet are $40 each for members ($55 for nonmembers) and include a pre-dinner reception. To register, visit www.lancasterchamber.com/ag or contact June Mengel, agriculture services manager, at (717) 397-3531 ext. 134 or ag@lcci.com.

DO YOU HAVE A FARM VACCINATION PLAN?

Dr. Arlen Mills
Capitol Region Extension Veterinarian
Lebanon

Dr. Arlen Mills

Vaccination is an essential part of any infectious disease control program for dairy farms. But to be successful, it must be planned to meet the needs of each operation. It must be remembered that vaccines (we hope) increase the animal's resistance to disease, but that resistance can be overwhelmed if good management practices are not followed.

A question which comes up with several of the viral infections is whether to use a killed vaccine or a modified live type vaccine. This continues to be debated, but the consensus is that, especially for the first immunization that a young calf receives, modified live vaccines give superior protection.

Setting up a vaccination program means determining 1) which diseases to vaccinate against, 2) which animals to vaccinate, and 3) when will the animal most need the protection that is to be provided? In light of this, a basic vaccination program that I recommend will be presented. Remember that this may need to be discussed with your veterinarian to determine what is best for your farm.

On most farms, calves can receive their first immunizations at four to six months of age. This is where the use of a modified live vaccine is recommended containing BVD, IBR, PI3, BRSV and lepto. Repeat this in four to six weeks to get those calves which did not respond to the vaccine initially and to ensure good BRSV protection.

On some farms with respiratory problems in the younger-age calves, I have vaccinated earlier, using this same vaccine or with just a modified live BRSV. Early vaccinated calves should be vaccinated at four to six months of age like any other calf, because we are never sure of the duration of immunity of early vaccinated calves.

Calves should also receive a Clostridial bacterin as well at the four- to six-month age. I am recommending this more often now as we seem to be seeing more of the Clostridial enteritis is dairy herds and the potential for Clostridial diseases is always present.

A new vaccine has recently been released for leptospirosis. The vaccines that have the five-strain lepto that we have been using for a number of years are known to be ineffective in protecting against the hardjo strain that is actually most common in cattle.

A new vaccine recently became available for the lepto hardjo strain. The vaccine must be given before exposure to lepto may occur. If infection may already be possible, pretreating with an antibiotic and then vaccinating is recommended. For the vaccine to be effective in cows, pretreatment with the antibiotic is necessary before or concurrent with vaccination with the new lepto hardjo vaccine. Since the new vaccine only contains the one type of lepto, we must continue to use the five-strain vaccine to protect against the other lepto strains.

The next vaccinations are due as prebreeding boosters. At this time, repeat the modified live vaccine containing BVD, IBR, PI3, BRSV, and lepto. In herds which have had a Salmonella problem, start heifers on a core antigen type bacterin at this time as well.

The next task is the dry cows and prefresh heifers. This is a good time to booster the cow's immunity to BVD, IBR, PI3, BRSV, and lepto. This will enhance the level of antibodies available in the colostrum for the calf and provide a boost to the cow's immunity at a critical time.

I recommend the use of a killed vaccine at this time, because you should have good immunity from the modified live vaccine given earlier and the killed vaccines are labeled for use in bred animals. There are modified-live vaccines labeled for use in bred cows, but they must have had the same vaccine given prebreeding or abortions may result.

The dry cows and prefresh heifers may also get a J5 bacterin-toxoid to prevent coliform mastitis. The number of doses will depend on the vaccine used. This is also the time to begin a Rota and Corona scour vaccine program if this is a farm problem. I prefer a scours vaccine that also contains E. coli and Clostridial antigens. Do not vaccinate within a week of freshening, or the week after freshening either. During this critical time, the cow's immune system is depressed to the point of not being able to respond to a vaccine.

I see a lot of variation in the vaccination of the lactating cows. If the young stock vaccination program is being done properly, then I find that the type of vaccine used in the adult cows isn't as critical. Some producers are using a modified live vaccine as a booster for all fresh cows prebreeding. Just remember to read and follow label directions carefully.

Many producers are using killed products in the lactating cows successfully. If the whole herd is being vaccinated at one time, vaccination should be done twice yearly. Vaccinate in the fall and again in the spring. Discuss with your veterinarian the pros and cons of using a modified-live vaccine vs. a killed product.

In the last several years, I have seen more and more respiratory problems in adult cows. Switching these herds to a vaccine that had a live BRSV fraction in the lactating cow booster seemed to be helpful. These herds had not been using a modified live vaccine in the young stock, which I'm sure is part of the problem.

A successful vaccination program takes careful planning. The program must be scientifically correct and supported by good management practices.

'Great Holstein Roundup' Under Way

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Holstein Association USA, Inc. has announced the beginning of the "Great Holstein Roundup."

The goal of the "Great Holstein Roundup" is to ensure a strong genetic base for the breed in the future by preserving today's top genetic information.

This fall, Holstein Association USA is searching for any registered Holstein that may have been sold without an ownership transfer, regardless of purchase or sale date.

An ownership transfer officially records the animal's current ownership with the association. The registered Holstein's ancestry and lactation information is beneficial in making profitable breeding decisions, both for that specific animal and for her offspring. Without a transfer, the valuable genetic information will be lost for herd owners and the dairy industry.

Every herd will sell some day, whether planned or due to some unforeseen circumstance. The transfer guarantees a higher price for the registered Holstein at the time of sale. Registered Holsteins continue to give buyers a high rate of return for a minimal investment, in addition to building a strong genetic base in their herd.

Holstein Association USA, Inc. encourages any Holstein breeder who has purchased animals in the past to call (800) 952-5200 to find out how they can participate in the "Great Holstein Roundup."

DASHING THROUGH THE SNOW.

The storm will pass. And thankfully, so will a Kubota snowblower. Try our snowblower attached to a Kubota B-Series or L-Series tractor for a snow removal team that's hard to beat.

They are a cinch to operate using the tractor's 3-point hitch as a hydraulic lifting system. Clear snow from driveways, roads or parking lots. Break up and clear heavy drifts. A special heavy-duty rear-mount snowblower is a recent addition to Kubota's B- and L-Series line-up.

So before the forecast calls for snow, make a dash to Keller Bros, Kubota.

Penn State Dairyman's Club To Celebrate 25 Years

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Dairymen's Club will celebrate its 25th anniversary Friday, Nov. 7 during the annual meeting at Celebration Hall, State College.

A wine and cheese celebration kicks off the evening at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 p.m. During the meeting, the club will elect new officers, receive updates on the Penn State Dairy Science Club and judging teams, meet this year's Penn State Dairy Science Club seniors, congratulate this year's Poage-Grant-in-Aid winners, and find out who is this year's Service Award winner.

An annual highlight is the unveiling of the newest Penn State milk bottle. The fifth-edition bottle will be available for purchase at the meeting, along with the first four editions. Antique milk bottle holders, as well as blue and white milk bottle caps, will also be available.

An entertaining program celebrating the 25th anniversary will conclude the evening, recognizing past board members, Nittany Lion Fall Classic chairpersons, and Poage-Grant-in-Aid winners.

The 20th annual Nittany Lion Fall Classic will take place the next day, Nov. 8 at 11 a.m. at the Ag Arena.

Tickets for the annual meeting are $17/person. Alumni are encouraged to sponsor a ticket for the graduating seniors. To make a reservation, contact Secretary/Treasurer Nicole Over at (607) 739-8820 or by e-mail at Nicole.Over@pfizer.com.

Penn State Dairyman's Club fifth-edition milk bottles will be available for purchase at the club's 25th anniversary celebration.

NASS Agriculture Counts

By Marc Tosiano
Pa. State Statistician

Editor's note: This is a monthly column from the Pennsylvania Ag Statistics Service (PASS), a field office of USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA). The Website is www.usda.gov/nass/.

CONSERVATION PROGRAMS EVALUATED

The 2002 Farm Bill authorized $38 billion in tax dollars to fund conservation practices on farms and ranches across the nation. This is about 80 percent above the level set under the 1996 Farm Bill.

It is widely recognized that these conservation programs protect millions of acres from soil erosion, enhance water and air quality, promote wetland and wildlife habitat restoration and preservation, and conserve agricultural water use.

However, the environmental benefits have not been previously quantified and reported at the national level. This is the goal of the new Conservation Effects Assessment Project (CEAP), a USDA cooperative effort among NASS, NRCS, and FSA.

Tracking the environmental benefits of these programs will allow policymakers and program managers to implement and modify existing programs and design new programs to more effectively and efficiently meet the goals of Congress. Annual reports summarizing the benefits of conservation programs will be produced beginning in 2005 and extending through 2008.

The delay in the initial report is to wait for two surveys in late 2003 and 2004. About 10,000 points have been selected nationwide. The operator of the field containing each point will be contacted by trained interviewers between October and December.

Introductory letters have been sent to each selected operator. There are 230 points in Pennsylvania.

Pa. Cash Receipts, Rankings

The 2002 cash receipts to farmers was recently released. We all know that milk is the largest single sector of Pennsylvania agricultural production. Milk accounted for 36.7 percent of the $4 billion in gross agricultural sales across the state. After that, cattle and calves had 9.7 percent of sales, agaricus mushrooms 9.7 percent, greenhouse and nursery 8.9, eggs 6.9, broilers 5.6, hogs 3.5, field corn 3.2, hay 3.2, turkeys 2.3, soybeans 1.2, apples 1 percent, and other commodities were each less than one percent of the total gross sales.

Pennsylvania mushrooms rank first in the nation with 59 percent of the national agaricus mushroom receipts. Compared to other states, Pennsylvania ranks number 4 for milk sales; number 5 for apples, grapes, and strawberries; number 5 for oats; number 6 for egg sales; number 6 for peaches; number 7 for tobacco; number 8 for greenhouse/nursery sales; and number 9 for tomatoes and turkey sales.

These "Agricultural Counts" show the importance of Pennsylvania agriculture here and across the nation.

2003 Small Grain Crops

Pennsylvania small grain production compared to last year was as follows: Winter wheat production was down 29 percent at 7.1 million bushels because of decreased acreage at 165,000 acres and yields at 43 bushels per acre. Barley production was down 10.7 percent at 3.97 million bushels because of decreased yields at 61 bushels per acre, but acres increased. Oat production was down 7.5 percent at 6.49 million bushels because of decreased acreage and yields of 59 bushels per acre.

Small grain production nationwide was generally high. Winter wheat production was 49 percent above last year. Barley production and oat production were each 22 percent above last year.

2003 Crop Forecasts

The Oct. 1 crop forecasts are in! All crops in the report show Pennsylvania production to be above last year. The report includes grain corn, dry hay, soybeans, tobacco, apples, and grapes.

Corn yields as of Oct. 1 are forecast at 120 bushels in Pennsylvania, up 52 bushels from last year and only 7 below the 2000 record-high yield of 127 bushels. Nationwide, at 142 bushels, yields are up 12 bushels from last year. U.S. production is forecast at 10.2 billion bushels. If realized, both production and yield would be the largest ever.

Alfalfa hay and other hay dry production in Pennsylvania are forecast at 23 percent and 47 percent above last year, respectively. Nationwide, production levels are also above 2002 with 6 percent more alfalfa and 7 percent more other hay. The alfalfa yield in all but 8 states is the same or above last year's level as most areas received adequate moisture. Record high yields are also forecast for a number of states for other hay because of abundant rainfall during the growing season. Soybean yield is forecast at 40 bushels in Pennsylvania, the same as the Sept. 1 forecast and 14 bushels above last year. While Pennsylvania production would be up 44 percent from last year, production nationwide is expected at 2.47 billion bushels, 10 percent below last year. If realized, this would be the lowest production since 1996.

Pennsylvania-type tobacco production is forecast at 20 percent more than last year. Maryland-type tobacco production in Pennsylvania is forecast 8 percent above last year. (There is no forecast for other-type tobaccos grown in Pennsylvania.)

Apple production in Pennsylvania is forecast at 440 million pounds, up 19 percent from last year. Nationally, apple production is expected to be 1 percent above the Aug. 1 forecast and 9 percent above last year.

Grape production in Pennsylvania is forecast at 32 percent above last year at 70,000 tons. The national harvest is expected to be down 4 percent from the Aug. 1 forecast and 8 percent below last year.

The next update to these agriculture counts will be on Nov. 12 for grain corn, soybeans, and tobacco. Use the Quickstats icon at www.usda.gov/nass for the latest statistics at the state and county levels.

Douglas Fir Needle Midge Confirmed In Pa.

CHARLENE M. SHUPP ESPENSHADE
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Rayanne Lehman, entomologist for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA), discussed the confirmation of Douglas fir needle midge in the state at the Southeast Christmas Tree Growers meeting Tuesday evening here at the Berks County Agricultural Center.

The Douglas fir needle midge is a small fly that spends its larvae stage in the Douglas fir tree needle eating plant material.

According to Lehman, this pest has not had a large impact on growers in the state as of yet. Most infestation is ranked as light.

Douglas fir needle midge was first detected in 2002 and was confirmed again in 2003 in Berks, Bucks, Chester, Dauphin, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, Northumberland, Schuylkill, and York counties.

"This is not going to lead to the decline of Douglas Fir production in the state," said Lehman. She said the greatest concern with the introduction of this pest is misdiagnosis by growers for another disease, such as Rhabdocline needlecast.

Lehman also said that this pest is of an aesthetic problem causing fir tree needle loss and broken needles.

"Needle midge is not going to kill the tree or cause a problem in the home," said Lehman. "It will just make the tree unsalable."

Lehman stressed this is an ideal time of year for Christmas tree growers to check their trees to see if they have an infestation, because the gall (bulge) on the needle is most noticeable, and make plans for handling the problem next spring.

If growers need assistance in confirming a needle midge infestation, Lehman said they can contact Penn State Extension or their local agriculture department plant inspector.

More information on the Douglas Fir Needle Midge and the Southeast Christmas Tree Growers meeting is scheduled for Lancaster Farming's Turf & Tree section in the Dec. 6 issue.

A special treat is in store for the Dec. 6 Lancaster Farming Grower & Marketer: a full page poster pullout of some of the most popular farm market stands in southeast Pennsylvania. This issue will also have special components, including a maple growing feature and a Christmas tree story for Lancaster Farming's Turf & Tree. Also scheduled: a story on worm castings.

Holstein Selection Party Kicks Off

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association invites all Holstein breeders to consign to the Annual Convention Sale, in Greensburg, Saturday, Feb. 21, at 11 a.m. in the Four Points Sheraton.

PHA and its Southwest District Convention Committee, co-managers of the 2004 Convention Sale, seek the best Holstein genetics for the sale. She could be your Very Good 2-year-old with potential for Excellent. Maybe she is the top on your CTPI or PTPI lists. She might possibly be the one that will grace the colored shavings in 2004 and take home All-American honors. Maybe she is backed by multiple generations of Excellent and Very Good cows. Most importantly they must be the best looking Holsteins on the East Coast.

If you have a possible consignment, please contact the PHA at www.paholsteins.com, djlentz@paholsteins.com, or (814) 234-0364 and (717) 329-9202. Consignment cut-off date is Jan. 1.

Unusual Cattle Breeds Gain Attention During KILE

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Two cattle breeds, uncommon in Pennsylvania, entered the Large Arena of the Farm Show Complex on Saturday during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition. The crowd watched in awe as the Texas Longhorn and Highland Cattle entered the ring. Neither are your typical beef breed; varying in both appearance and preparation technique.

Showing cattle naturally is standard for each breed. Texas Longhorns are known for their distinctive horns and rugged appearance; while Highland cattle are covered in a thick, long coat of hair and are shorter in stature. In both the Junior and Open Breeding Competitions, exhibitors were recognized for their excellent showmanship and high-quality animals.

The Texas Longhorn Competition occured Saturday morning, during the All Eastern Junior Beef Breeding Show. Mary Cline of Aspers, won Grand Champion Female with her Longhorn heifer who was shown by Shane McCleaf of Biglerville. Cline, President of the International Texas Longhorn Association, is also an accredited Longhorn judge.

During the Junior show, Blue Ridge Slick Rusty walked away with the Grand Champion Steer award. Randy Sutton's steer was shown by 18 year-old, Brandon Hawks, of Wyoming, NY. This was Brandon's first win at KILE.

Pleasant Valley Cattle Company of Smithsburg, Md. won the All-Age Grand Champion Female award for the second year in a row with their heifer, Tiptoes Oklahoma Cowgirl. Although this is the family's second year at KILE, they have been showing Longhorns since 1995.

Both the All-Age Grand Champion and All-Age Reserve Grand Champion Bull's were exhibited by Misty Hollow Farm of Wolfsville, Md. The All-Age Grand Champion, Ain't Impressive, was shown by Debbie McCLain. The heifer has previously won Grand Champion Intermediate Bull and Reserve Grand Champion Intermediate Bull at the Great Frederick Fair in Maryland. Debbie's husband Eddie McCLain exhibited Diago, who was chosen as the All-Age Reserve Grand Champion. Misty Hollow Farm has been showing fine Texas Longhorns for five years.

PeeWee through senior showmen participated in the All-Eastern Junior Highland Cattle Show on Saturday afternoon. The show kicked off as a single bagpipe player led the first class around the arena. Vicky Ross, a 16 year-old from Waterford, exhibited Literra Praise, who is owned by Judith Ligo of Literra Farm. Literra Praise was named grand champion female.

During the Open Breeding Highland Show, Black Watch Kalen took home the grand champion female award. Black Watch Kalen is owned by Frank and Liz Manafort of Black Watch Farm, Springfield, Vt. Chris Markwell, the Black Watch Farm Herd Manager, exhibited the heifer. Kalen has also placed at the Denver National Highland Stock Show and at the NEHCA in Springfield, Mass.

Chester County Holstein Club Spans Generations

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

ATGLEN (Chester Co.) — Chester County's commitment to registered Holsteins started a long time ago, and several generations later it's still going strong.

Harold Umble, 84, was inducted into the Pennsylvania Holstein Hall of Fame earlier this year. He was honored again by his family and friends at the annual Chester County Holstein Club banquet Thursday evening at West Fallowfield Christian School.

Christy Guest shares her award-winning speech with the local crowd.

Umble, Atglen, began building his registered Holstein herd in the 1950s with a cow he purchased from Canada. This cow lived to be 17 years old and produced 12 generations of Excellent and Very Good Holsteins.

By the late 1970s, Umble's herd had produced Glen-Valley Star, the top Holstein sire for type in the U.S. at the time.

Umble said none of his success would have been possible without the support of his wife Lena and their family. He spoke about the joy and grief he has experienced during his lifetime, including the pain of losing three of six children over the years.

His son Ken and family continue to keep the Umble's Holstein tradition thriving on their Atglen farm. Ken also serves as president of the Holstein club.

This year marked the first organized Junior Holstein Club in the county, with three quiz bowl teams going to the state convention.

Junior club leader Marilyn Hershey said 16 kids from the county traveled to the convention in Bethlehem this past February.

Christy Guest of Pottstown was a speech contest finalist in Bethlehem and went on to speak at the national convention in North Carolina in June.

Guest gave her speech on the hardships and crucial importance of dairy farming to the local group Thursday evening.

She talked about the long stretch of low milk prices and the widespread loss of farmland, noting that her family's dairy farm is the last one operating in East Nantmeal Township.

"I ask you, how are farmers supposed to pay 2003 bills with 1970s' milk prices?" she said.

Guest cited a survey from Britain which showed that 80 percent of consumers said they would be willing to pay more for food if they knew it would help struggling farmers.

The key is education — of the farmer, the youth, and the public, Guest said.

Meredith Baily, Chester County Dairy Princess, gave a short talk, pointing out that the county is one of the top 10 dairy producers in the state.

"Chester County sure helps to make Pennsylvania a top dairy state," she said.

The evening included production award presentations. Youth winners were Erica Lloyd, high lifetime production; Reuben Bender, high production, first lactation; Brad Guest, high fat, first lactation; and Christy Guest, high production and fat for a mature cow.

Alvin Stoltzfus of Dunwood Farms posted the highest Breed Age Average (BAA) in the county, at 107.7 percent.

Production winners were Amos and Melvin Stoltzfus of Honey-Brite Holsteins, high lifetime production;

Milk Hearing Nov. 17

LaPLUME (Lackawanna Co.) — The National Family Farm Coalition, in cooperation with several farm organizations across the U.S. is conducting hearings for dairy farmers, consumers, and business people that deal with dairy farmers.

The first hearing in Pennsylvania will be at Keystone College, LaPlume, on Monday, Nov. 17, at 10 a.m. The hearing will be sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy Policy Development Committee of Family Farm Defenders (P.D.P.D.C. of F.F.D.) and the Progressive Agriculture Organization (Pro Ag), and will be hosted by Keystone College.

Arden Tewksbury, manager of Pro Ag said, "With the continued unorthodox prices received by dairy farmers, we feel it is time for dairy farmers to have a forum to speak out on the dairy issues."

Gerald Carlin, chairman of P.D.P.D.C. of F.F.D., said, "The hearings will be geared for the dairy farmers and not farm organizations."

In addition to dairy farmers testifying, the groups anticipate that consumers will be present also. Various Senatorial and Congressional Aides will be present for the hearing.

Information obtained at the hearings will be used by the Nation Family Farm Coalition, and others to promote a more realistic dairy policy in Washington, D.C.

Anyone interested in testifying at the hearing should contact Pro Ag at (570) 833-5776 or P.D.P.D.C. of F.F.D. at (570) 833-4592.

Chester County Holstein Club

Stan and Cathy Guest, high production, first lactation; Duane and Marilyn Hershey, high fat, first lactation; and Duane and Marilyn Hershey, high production and fat, mature cow.

David Lentz, sale director for the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, affirmed the county's growing junior club, noting that his own Holstein involvement growing up in Lebanon County gave him the chance to "see a lot of places in this country and meet a lot of great people."

Lentz gave an update on buyers looking for good Holsteins. Right now, buyers are looking for 15 high-type cows, a 120-cow freestall herd, bred heifers due in late winter/early spring, and a small tiestall herd.

Lentz also encouraged consigning and/or buying at the convention sale in Greensburg next February. He urged breeders to be willing to part with some of their better cows.

"The good ones that hurt to sell are the ones meant to sell," he said.

The Nittany Lion Fall Classic coming up on Nov. 8 will offer at least 70 high-quality Holsteins, according to Lentz.

Wolff Kicks Off Harvest Tour

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Dennis C. Wolff arrived at Hanover Shoe Farms before sunrise last week to begin a two-week Harvest Tour to promote Pennsylvania agriculture.

"Agriculture is a very diverse industry in Pennsylvania," said Wolff. "It is important to get out and meet the people who work hard every day to keep this industry thriving, to learn from them and to hear their concerns."

At Hanover Shoe Farms in York County, one of the premier standardbred horse breeding farms in the world, Wolff was taken on a tour of the facility. There, he saw Western Hanover, one of the most highly sought after sires.

Wolff, a Columbia County dairy farmer whose work in dairy genetics earned him a seat on the World Trade Organization's Agriculture Technical Committee, discussed breeding practices, genetics, and the business of horse breeding with Hanover Shoe Farms President and CEO Jim Simpson.

The next stop on the tour was Hollabaugh Brothers Fruit Farms and Market in Biglerville Wolff met with Brad and Kay Hollabaugh and several other local fruit growers to discuss this year's harvest and the recent outbreak of plum pox virus in the area.

The Hollabaughs expressed concern that each generation seems further removed from agriculture. They commended Wolff for his efforts to educate youth, local officials, and the general public about the important role agriculture plays in their daily lives. The Hollabaugh's also expressed frustration that many Pennsylvania grocery stores and public institutions continue to buy their apples out of state instead of supporting local growers. Wolff said he is acutely aware of this and is working to address this through greater awareness and promotion of Pennsylvania-grown goods.

Following a tour of the Hollabaugh's apple orchard in which the secretary picked apples and talked with teen-agers representing the Apple City FFA chapter, Wolff headed west to Shippensburg where he visited the Wenger Feed mill. Plant officials explained the feed mixing process and methods for insuring quality and proper nutrient levels. Wenger has five feed mills in Pennsylvania and one in Maryland, primarily serving the poultry and swine industries.

Ingredient Resource Manager Geoff Finch congratulated Wolff on the recent launching of the Department of Agriculture's Marketplace for the Mind, Web-based education initiative (www.marketplaceforthemind.com), and for his attention to the impact of local ordinances on agriculture.

The Fall Harvest Tour took Wolff through the southeast region of the commonwealth on Monday, this week, where he visited schools, toured a local food company and landscape nursery operation, and attended an economic development meeting.

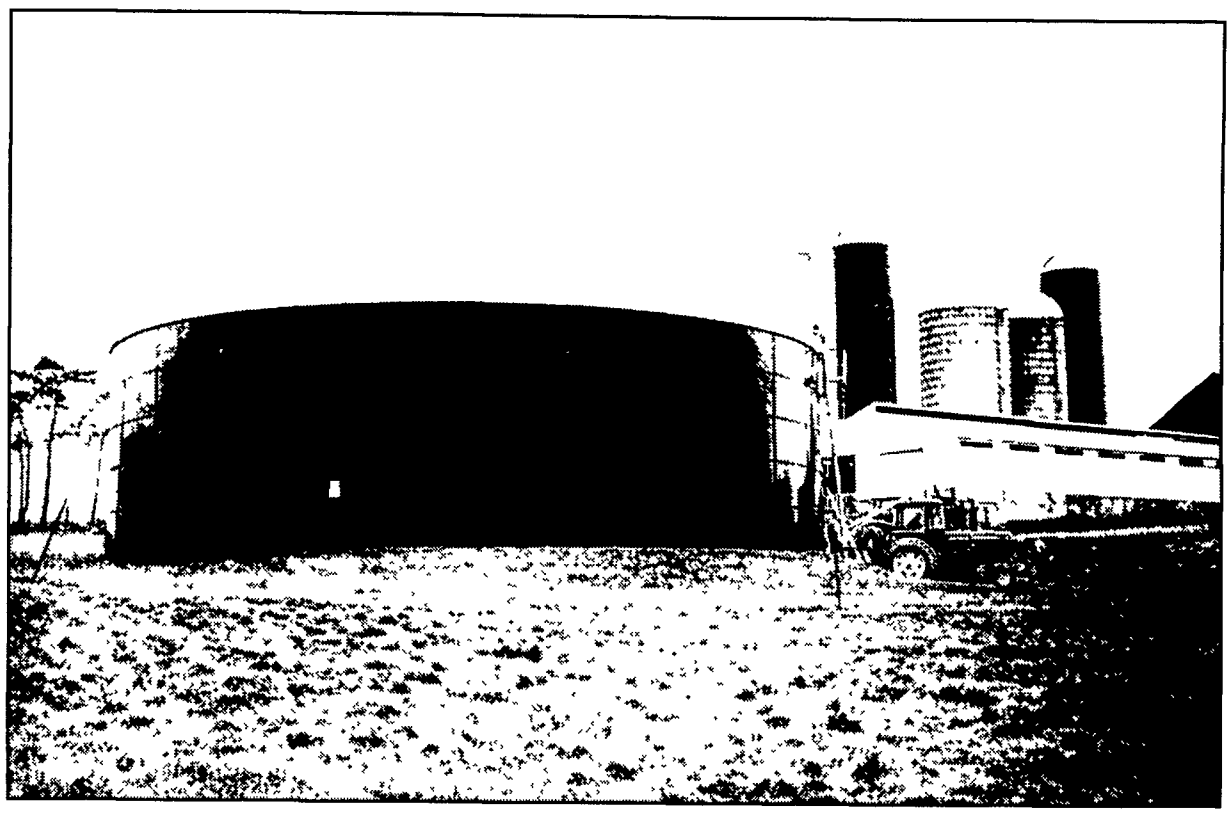
81' x 23' Slurrystore® erected in 1996



"We looked at them all, then we decided to buy a Slurrystore. The people who laid out our Slurrystore were better than anyone else we talked to. They engineered it to suit us. And our Slurrystore is safe - we don't have any fences to maintain."

"We were very concerned about agitating a manure system and we thought the Slurrystore had the best agitation system available. We have a 4,000-gal. spreader and we can fill it in two minutes. When we empty the Slurrystore, we can get it empty to within inches of the bottom. We've put nearly a million gallons per year through our Slurrystore and have not spent anything on service or maintenance!"

Home on the Range

NEW G... on the ...

A natural hybrid cross between broccoli and Chinese Kale (also called gai lan or Chinese Broccoli), Broccolini is fresh, elegant and easy to prepare.

It has a delicate flavor with a subtle, peppery 'edge" and the taste is milder and sweeter than broccoli when cooked It is completely edible, from flower to stem, and its texture is less fibrous than either broccoli or asparagus (the stem does not need to be peeled before being eaten) This is a strikingly versatile vegetable with an endless range of culinary possibilities — and its elegant slim stems and attractive flower add a sophisticated beauty to a variety of meal presentations

Broccolini has been popping up on the menus of some of the nation s finest restaurants and is now widely available in supermarkets throughout the country Chefs and culinary professionals throughout the country are adding this new vegetable to their dishes

Look for Broccolini in the specialty produce section of the supermarket It comes bunched like asparagus or washed and ready to use in a shrink-wrapped tray It can be a bit high in cost, since it is more labor intensive to harvest and pack than traditional broccoli, but the sweet flavor ease of preparation and gourmet appearance makes the price well worth it

Sweet Spicy Chicken Stir-Fry

On Being a Farm Wife

(and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Pity the poor pumpkins.

They must be feeling like "has-been's" about now.

It's been a tough year for our traditional, and most loved, seasonal symbol.

Our extended damp, dreary — "moldy" if you will — weather pattern over the summer was the opposite of what a pumpkin would choose for the perfect environment. Cool, rainy periods in early summer pushed pumpkin planting times late. And lack of sunshine limited their vigor and left them vulnerable to diseases and insects.

A bank sloping from the dairy barn down to our lawn has proven in years past to be a great place for pumpkin cultivation. It gets full sun exposure, the soil is rich and, even in dry years, soaks up and holds extra moisture anytime a cloudburst/rainstorm drenches us with any runoff.

In an effort to reproduce orange orbs the size of a few past memorable ones, we tucked a few seeds of the specialty giant pumpkin seeds into the black-plastic-covered bank in early June. The grandchildren are pumpkin enthusiasts; the larger they are, the better they like 'em.

So we watched with anticipation a pumpkin baby clinging to a vine crawling out of the little pumpkin patch several weeks later. By late summer it was the size of a basketball — and growing. Regular checks confirmed its continued swelling. Until one day after a prolonged rainy stretch — when the pumpkin had collapsed into a rotted, soggy mess.

Yeecchhhh!

On closer inspection, we found under the giant leaves and tangle of vines a single remaining pumpkin. Though immature, it was nicely shaped and already turning a pale orange. That, we decided, would have to be the family pumpkin, dedicated to giving its life in one brightly-lit finale of the season.

Pumpkins, much like Christmas trees, are a crop destined for our visual and emotional enjoyment. Both find fulfillment in shining lights and the oohs and aahs of excited children.

But, the chance to glow as a smiling, frowning or scary Jack-O-Lantern is history for this year. How sad. No children's oohs and aahs. No brightly-lit grins. What's to look forward to?

Take heart, all you sad pumpkins out there. There is still a chance for you to shine.

Actually, if you happen to be one of those beige-hued, long-necked types, your day in the sun is just coming over the horizon. Can you say "pie?"

Reality is, even the long-necked pie types were challenged this year. Several from our garden have been keeping company on the porch with the single, big, round one. At least the first one we chopped and processed for the season's first pies lacked the brilliant yellow-orange flesh color. And, the more pale colored pumpkin pulp also had a less intense pumpkin flavor.

That didn't prevent the pies from being gobbled up, however. But, we'll pump the next ones up a little more intensely with vanilla and spice flavorings.

If your pumpkins didn't get to smile and glow, and you're not into pies, what's to do with a pumpkin? There are always the seeds inside to roast and salt and nibble like peanuts or sunflower seeds. Colonial settlers believed, I recently read, that pumpkin seeds were good for removing freckles. And as an antidote for snakebite.

No freckles or snakes in your life? Perhaps you'd instead like to try the Hollywood version of pumpkin use. Just mooosh-up some of the raw pulp and apply it to your skin as a facial treatment. So there's a use for that leftover harvest.

Yeecchhh!

Guess we'll stick with the pies.

BROCCOLINI AND CAVATELLI PASTA

1 pound frozen cavatelli
2 cups broccolini flowerets (small pieces)
1 lemon 2 cloves garlic, minced
¼ cup olive oil
¼ cup butter

Cavatelli is a ricotta-based pasta that looks like longated dumplings, about the size of a elongated quarter. Cavatelli is available in the frozen food section and in the dry pasta section of supermarkets. Lee prefers the frozen version, which she said is more flavorable.

Cook cavatelli as directed on package. While this is cooking, add the broccolini flowerets to boiling water and cook until just tender. Leave a bit crunchy. Drain.

In saucepan, place the olive oil and butter. Melt down the butter and then add the two cloves of garlic. Saute for 30 seconds. Add the juice of one lemon.

Drain cooked cavatelli. Add the flowerets. Pour the garlic butter mixture over and toss well. Place in serving dish and serve.

Rx For Report Card Anxiety

Report card time is just around the corner once again for most students. And for many of them, this is a time of high anxiety. This excessive worrying may stem from a fear the child has of what his or her parents might do when they see the grades, but often this anxiety is self-imposed.

What is a parent to do with a child who is a perfectionist? First of all, parents need to distinguish between a high achiever and a perfectionist. Does your child set reasonable goals that are achievable, or are they beyond reach and reason?

Does your child enjoy what he is doing or he is he solely focused on an absolutely perfect product?

Does your child bounce back from failure and try again, or does she wallow in disappointment?

Does she have a level of anxiety that energizes her to try her hardest, or is she consumed with fear of failure?

Does your child react to criticism fairly positively, seeing it as a learning opportunity, or does he become defensive, expressing feelings of being a total failure?

Parents of over-achievers have an added task on their list of things to do for their child.

If you feel that your child falls into the perfectionist category, report card time can be a great opportunity for you to assist your child in becoming a healthy achiever instead of a perfection seeker.

When the report card envelope reaches your door, whether you child is a perfectionist or not, here are some strategies for using the report card as a way to talk about goals, accomplishments, and disappointments:

Begin by focusing on the positives. Talk about the A's and B's before the C's and D's. Read the positive teacher commentary.

Stay calm when talking about the grades that your child feels are not so good. Ask him how he feels about the mark he received. Use empathy and understanding.

Let your child know that aiming for 100 percent is a great goal, but is often not achievable all at once.

Sometimes a goal is first reached at 80 percent, then 90 percent. Explain that lower grades allow for improvement. Set a reasonable goal for the next marking period.

Together take a look at the total picture. What else has your child been doing and doing well? It may not be reasonable to expect straight A's during football season or spring play practice.

Success does not only mean high grades in school. Talk about the other things he does often and well.

Do not compare children. Recognize each one's uniqueness.

Continue to set the standard that your expectation for your child is that he or she simply does his or her best. Doing one's best is not the same as being perfect.

Come up with a few reasonable goals for the next report card such as a B+ instead of a B in algebra.

Decide on strategies for achieving the goal such as hiring a tutor or spending an extra 20 minutes a day practicing.

Report card day can be an anxiety producing time for parents and children. Or it can be a time for parents to help their children set reasonable goals and put achievement in its proper perspective!

Art And Farming Cross Paths

SCHAEFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Art and farming cross paths at artist Judy Eberly's farm, Juben Hill Llamas. A painter for most of her life, Judy began exploring the fiber arts with her llama wool and makes clothing and sculpture from this unique resource.

Get a unique chance to meet Judy and her gentle llamas during the Art Studio Tour taking place on Saturday, Nov. 8, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 9, noon-5 p.m. Judy is one of over 26 central Pennsylvania artists opening their studio doors for the tour. This popular event gives residents and visitors alike a chance to interact with art that they can love — for themselves or as a truly unique gift.

Judy and her husband have had Juben Hill Llamas for 14 years, starting their herd soon after they retired. "I just always loved the way they looked," said Judy, "so elegant and regal."

About 10 years ago Judy began collecting their fiber for yarn. She discovered felting about 5 years ago and became part of the Llama and Fiber Friends, (LAFF), a group of felters from around central Pennsylvania. She makes clothing, hats, gloves, slippers, masks, and even pictures of felt. Within the last two years she started making figures. LAFF members have even collaborated in April 2003 on a special sunflower motif felt chair, donated to the American Lung Association of York Co. LAFF members will be demonstrating at Judy's studio during the Art Studio Tour.

"The Art Studio Tour is such a wonderful opportunity for people to get out there and see what's happening (in the arts) and to look to see what they like," stated Eberly.

Artist Judy Eberly works on a painting in her Schaefferstown studio.

Some of the other participating artists stretch the use of their materials in new and exciting ways, while others start with smooth and familiar traditional forms and allow that to be its own subtle expression. Sylvia Lehman creates baskets that display an unending variety of shapes, all inspired by other non-typical or found materials, such as paper or metal, which she incorporates into her compositions. Woodturner Bill Hackett creates simple forms with clean lines and a soothing feel from rough raw logs that he has stacked right outside of his studio.

Brochures with maps include directions to each tour stop and brief descriptions of the artist's work. They are available by calling (717) 832-2182 or by visiting www.art-studio-tour.com.

One thinks of summer as a vacation time but we just had a short one in the fall. Our oldest son lives in Delaware, and he invited us to his cottage in Virginia. This was quite a journey for us older folks.

We had never seen the new house that he had built in Delaware and so it was not easy for us to find. We worried a bit as we arrived late, but we still got to see our grandsons football practice. Our granddaughter, who goes to college in Richmond, drove to her home to visit with us and share a meal.

We really appreciated our son driving the last four hours in his big, new white truck. He was hauling a big computer for his son who also goes to college in Virginia. As our son has a large boat on the Piankatank River, all of us went fishing, we only caught small ones; however, we got a lot of blue crabs and used a net to get them out of the water. Our son will give them to a friend at his workplace.

I sat in the front of the boat and almost got blown away as he went 40 miles per hour to a large bridge off the Chesapeake Bay. We just could not find fish even though his fish finder showed that a few were down there.

Our son has a beautiful place with all the conveniences of home, and we lived like kings. One night he made oyster soup for us, and it surely had a lot of oysters in it. I picked up some big pine cones for a daughter-in-law to use for her Girl Scout troup. It seems that they do a lot of crafts.

We even managed to get lost on the way home, but with the use of maps we arrived safely.

Farming In A Harsh Environment

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

UNION, Me. — Farming anywhere can be tough but the seacoast of Maine with its harsh winters, short growing season, and not the best soil produces a challenge to the best of agriculture experts.

The challenges have caused many Maine farmers to unite in order to discover ways to provide a better living while still doing what they love, producing food from the farm.

Such is the case with Mark Hedrich and Linda Rose, owners of Agricola Farms, located in Union, overlooking picturesque mountains and ponds and bordering on the St. George Rive. Agricola Farms is not far from the scenic rocky seacoast of downeast Maine.

Decades ago, a dairy farm and John Deere dealership was located where Agricola now stands. Today it is 117 acres of mostly fields, some woods, a farmstand, two 96-feet greenhouses, and three other equipment storage/ maintenance or livestock shelter buildings.

Surrounded by blueberry fields, the farmstand is a natural place to sell mouth-watering blueberry products. The blueberry jams, chutney, syrups, and ice cream toppings are made by local farm women.

"We sell hay to some of these farms and, in turn, we sell their products at our stand," Linda explains.

The farmstand is a fun shop with locally made jewelry, notecards, pet items, small toys, wooden crafts, locally made cheese, and some sheepskin items. Linda and Mark also sell their own homegrown flowers, produce and lamb.

Approximately 60 acres of Agricola are hay. More then nine acres are in vegetables, many of which are heirloom and specialty varieties.

Sheep are raised for freezer lamb, wool, and breeding stock. The Roses also have a couple of cashmere goats, and for conversation, a miniature donkey and several miniature horses.

"We use intensive rotational grazing pasture management systems," Mark says. The greenhouses are used to grow the vegetables and flowers and vegetable seedlings, and flower planters and baskets.

More then 200 varieties of vegetables are grown in the fields and raised beds, using floating row covers and tunnels on some crops such as the melons.

The major crops are tomatoes, cukes, peppers, corn, melons, squash and pumpkins. They also grow beans, onions, garlic, peas, lettuces, eggplant, greens, beets, broccoli, cauliflowers, cabbage, and herbs.

Local farmers have united to form two farmers markets. One is located in the seacoast town of Rockland, lobster capitol of the world. The other is in picturesque Camden.

A community-sustained agriculture program added in 1998 has proven successful in strengthening farm diversity while increasing community involvement. Forty families are shareholders.

Mark explains, "We have participated in the Senior Farm Share Program since its first year in 2001 which benefits local elders as well as many small regional farms."

Agricola Farms holds four additional events per year, including Open Farm Day which is hosted with the Medomak Valley High School Heirloom Seed Project.

To supplement the farming income, Mark and Linda are the local Gallagher Power Fence dealers and offer a large inventory of livestock fence.

Their farmstand is open from May through December. Linda makes wreaths from the local pine trees and has been successful at selling these over the Internet.

As members of the Maine Organic Farmers and Gardeners Association, Mark and Linda said that while California could probably produce all of the milk the country needs, they think that cows dotting the rolling hillsides of Maine are an asset. "Besides we need the cows' fertilizer for the farms and gardens," Linda said.

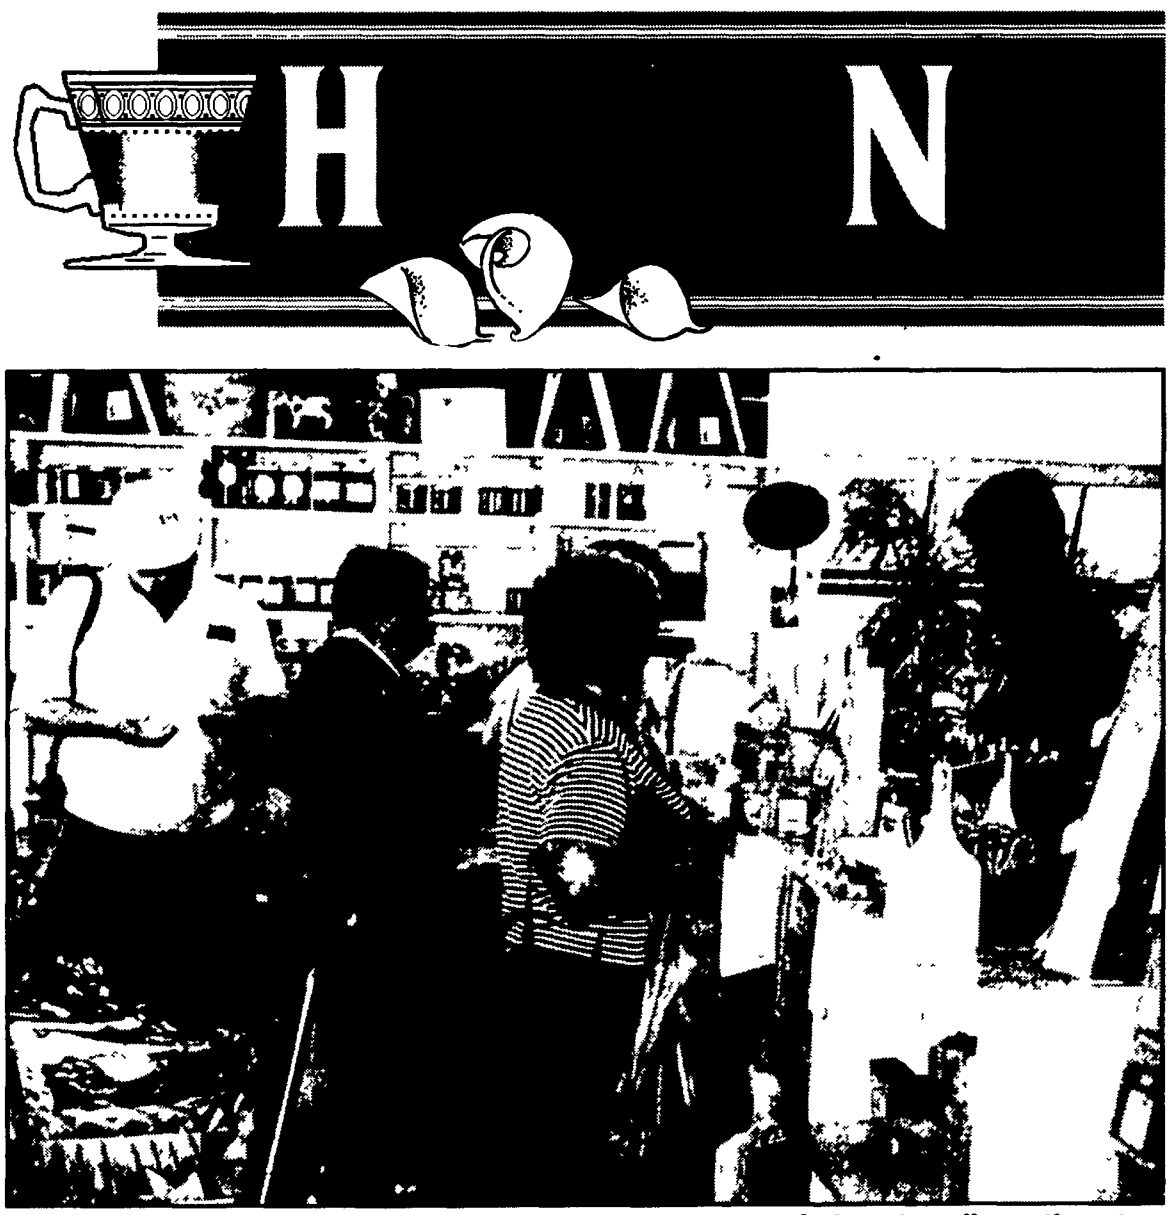
Mark and Linda point out that wildlife benefits from farmland more than from sprawl.

Other Maine farms in the Knox County area involved in the co-op projects raise sheep, train and raise dogs, produce maple syrup, raise herbs, rabbits, goats, berries and produce honey. They raise chickens, freezer beef, and anything the land allows.

Diversification, they all believe, is the key to surviving on a Maine farm.

Linda and Mark on Agricola Farms battle with harsh winters, a short growing season, and poor soil, but have discovered diversification makes farming profitable in Maine.

Bright purple elderberries are grown and sold on Agricola Farms.



Surrounded by blueberry fields, the farmstand is a natural place to sell mouth-watering blueberry products. The blueberry jams, chutney, syrups, and ice cream toppings are made by local farm women.

A busload of customers visits the farmstand.

Miniature animals attract farm visitors.

Holiday markets present a vast panorama of foods for your eating pleasure. Which will you choose and what are the considerations that will decide your choices?

Fruits figure in most people's holiday plans. They are the very symbols of plenty and celebration. All fruits are highly esteemed for their protective role in the diet. That's something to watch during the holidays when an over-abundance of rich foods and sweets is often the rule. Fruits are important sources of vitamins and minerals, and the banana is a good example to consider.

Few people realize what well-rounded nutrients the banana has such as the following:

- A good supply of protective vitamins
- A high supply of potassium
- A fair supply of calcium and phosphorous
- 100 percent available iron
- Low sodium content
- 99.8 percent fat free
- Satiety value
- Quick energy

It's so easy to get all these benefits from the banana. Just peel and eat. Vitamins and minerals go down mighty easy in a smooth, mellow banana. Did you know there are only 85 calories in a 3-ounce (10 grams) 6-inch banana?

Banana breads and muffins are easy to make and great for filling up the corners at snack time or lunchtime. In baked foods, the bananas are most often used in mashed form so that they become a sweet, flavorful semi-solid.

Here's a tried and true recipe for delicious Banana Quick Bread, a grand thing to have on hand for the holidays. Spread it with low fat cream cheese for a delicious sandwich, toast it for tea time, or just slice it into fingers and serve with any favorite beverage.

BANANA QUICK BREAD

⅓ cup shortening
⅔ cup sugar
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (3 medium-sized)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat shortening until creamy and glossy, or 2 minutes at medium speed on electric mixer. Gradually add sugar, beating until light and fluffy after each addition. Add eggs and beat until thick and pale lemon in color.

Sift dry ingredient; add alternately with bananas; blend thoroughly after each addition. Grease bottom only of a loaf pan (approximately 4x8x2 inches). Pour batter into pan. Bake 60 to 70 minutes or until cake taster inserted in center comes out clean and dry.

Let bread partially cool in pan (20 to 30 minutes) before turning onto rack. Makes 1 loaf.

Quarryville Girl Earns Junior Angus Awards

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Katrina Frey, Quarryville, has qualified for the Bronze and Silver Awards of the National Junior Angus Association, James Fisher, director of activities and junior activities for the American Angus Association recently announced.

Katrina is the 13-year-old daughter of Fritz and Nancy Frey, and is a seventh grader at Swift Middle School. She has shown her Angus in numerous shows at the local, state, and national levels. She has participated in public speaking and the quiz bowl at the National Junior Angus Show.

Katrina has also been the Pennsylvania Angus Sweetheart, and has represented her state as a voting delegate to the NJAA Annual Meeting.

Currently a director of the Pennsylvania Junior Angus Association, she has been a member of the National Junior Angus Association since 1990.

The Bronze and Silver Awards are the first two levels of the National Junior Angus Association Recognition Program that began in 1972. Junior Angus breeders must apply for the awards and then meet point requirements in many areas of participation before receiving the honors.

Applicants are evaluated in the areas of junior Angus association activities, participation in showmanship and leadership competitions, using performance testing to improve their herd and their progress in producing and merchandising Angus cattle.

Monroe County Extension Offers Holiday Workshops

STROUDSBURG (Monroe Co.) — "Colorize and Organize Your Holidays" is the theme for this year's holiday program coordinated by the Monroe County extension.

The program will be conducted Thursday, Dec. 4, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:40 p.m. at the Clarion Hotel in Stroudsburg.

In addition to the choice of one of two workshops on holiday gifts and decorations, there will be sessions on health screening and options, colorizing your diet, building colorful relationships, getting organized in time for the holidays, and a non-diet approach to wellness.

The cost of the program is $22 if registered by Nov. 20 and $30, Nov. 21 or later. For a registration form or more information, contact Monroe County extension office (570) 421-6430.

QUESTION — A Lancaster County reader wants recipes for cream of mushroom soup that tastes like Campbell's condensed mushroom soup.

QUESTION — Luci Essig, Bernville, wants recipes to make trifles.

QUESTION — Peggy Chirico, Canadensis, wants a recipe to make pumpkin butter that tastes like the kind made by Baumans.

QUESTION — Ruth Klingler, Selinsgrove, requests recipes for vegetable breads.

ANSWER — Joyce Shoemaker, Mount Joy, wanted a recipe for corn fries. Thanks to Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, who writes that she researched to find the ingredients for corn fries and this was as close as she could come.

Corn Fries

1½ quarts water
1 tablespoon kosher salt
¾ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
2 ounces butter
1 pound course yellow cornmeal, plus more for breading
1 cup cheddar cheese
½ bunch cilantro,
chiffonade (optional)
3 cups canola oil, for frying

Combine water, salt, pepper, and butter, and bring to boil. Slowly, in a thin stream, whisk in the cornmeal. When it starts to bubble, turn off heat or it will splatter (the mix is very hot at this stage and can burn). Stir with wooden spoon, partially cover and leave on the warm stovetop, stirring every few minutes so it does not stick, for 30 minutes. When thick, remove from warm stovetop, and add cheese and cilantro. Mix well. Pour into a 1x8x12-inch sheet tray or baking dish. Smooth out the mixture until it is level. Chill until firm, about 2 to 3 hours. Preheat the canola oil in a deep pot to 350 degrees F. Cut polenta in strips, about 1½ by 3 inches. Lightly bread the polenta "fries" with cornmeal. Deep fry in hot oil for 2 to 4 minutes or until crispy. Serve with cheese sauce and salsa.

ANSWER — A Fleetwood reader is looking for a recipe to duplicate a cake purchased at the outdoor Farmer's Market, Coudersport. Thanks to Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, for sending a recipe.

Sunshine Cake

1 package Betty Crocker yellow cake mix
1 (10 oz.) jar orange marmalade, less 3 teaspoons
2 teaspoons orange peel, grated

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 12-cup bundt cake pan. Prepare cake mix as directed on package, except decrease water to 1 cup and add marmalade and orange peeling. Bake until the cake pulls away from side of the pan and springs back when touched lightly in the center or when wooden pick inserted in the center comes out clean. Let cake stay in oven about 45 to 50 minutes. Cool for 10 minutes. Remove from pan when cake is cooled completely. Spread with glaze, allowing some to drizzle down the side. Garnish with mint leaves and orange peeling, if desired.

GLAZE: ¾ cup powdered sugar, 3 teaspoons orange marmalade, 2 teaspoons orange juice.

Blend powdered sugar, orange peel, and orange juice until smooth. If necessary, stir in additional orange juice, ¼ teaspoon at a time, until desired consistency.

ANSWER — Donna Bryerbach wanted a recipe to make tapioca pudding in a crockpot. Thanks to Lee Laverty for sending two recipes.

Seed Pearl Slow-Cooker Tapioca

Combine in crock pot:
2 quarts milk
1 cup seed pearl tapioca
1½ cups sugar
Cook on high three hours.
Mix together:
4 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
A little of the hot milk.

Add to crock pot. Cook on high 20 more minutes. Chill. Serve with whipped cream or fruit.

Tapioca Salad - Large Pearl

Combine in crockpot:
10 tablespoons large pearl tapioca
½ cup sugar
Dash salt
4 cups water

Cook on high 3 hours or until tapioca pearls are almost translucent.

Remove from crock pot and cool thoroughly in refrigerator.

Stir in 1 cup grapes (cut in half), 1 cup crushed pineapple (drained) and 1 cup whipped cream. Serve cold. This recipe makes a lot!

Variations: Add 1 small can drained mandarin oranges or some chopped maraschino cherries.

ANSWER — Carrie Sponsetter, Gettysburg, attended the South Mountain Apple Festival, where she had pumpkin funnel cake that tasted so good and wanted the recipe. Thanks to Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, for sending a recipe.

Pumpkin Funnel Cakes

1½ cup all-purpose flour
1 egg
½ cup canned pumpkin
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
Confectioners' sugar for topping
Vegetable oil for deep frying
Heat vegetable oil to 375 degrees F.

Beat egg; add pumpkin, milk and stir until smooth. Sift dry ingredients, and add to the egg mixture. Mix until the batter is smooth and not too thick.

If batter is too thick for funnel, add small amounts of milk for desired consistency. The funnel should have an opening of at least ½ inch and be able to hold about ½ cup batter.

Put your finger over the bottom and add about a cup of batter. Remove your finger and allow the batter to pour into the center of the oil. Be careful, the oil may splash! Gradually swirl the batter outward in a circular motion, or crisscross back and forth to make a cake about 7 or 8 inches round. Check it with tongs and turn it when the bottom becomes golden brown. When both sides are done, remove with tongs and let it drain on a paper towel.

Sift confectioners' sugar over each funnel cake.

ANSWER — Nancy needed a recipe to make grape jelly using Jell-O. Thanks to Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, for sending a recipe.

Diabetic Grape Jelly

1 package plain Jell-0
½ cup cold water
1 grain saccharin
2 cups unsweetened grape juice
½ cup grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt
Add gelatin, water, and saccharin. Allow gelatin to soften and swell. Bring 1 cup grape juice to a boil and add to gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Add the other cup of grape juice to the lemon juice and rind and salt. Pour into gelatin. Pour into jars. When cold, cover and refrigerate.

ANSWER — Bonnie Hershey, Manheim, wanted a recipe to make frozen fudge pops made with cornstarch. Thanks for Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, for answering this recipe.

Frozen Fudge Pops

2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup hot (not boiling) water
6 tablespoons (2½ ozs.) sugar
2 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 ounces unsweetened chocolate, coarsely chopped
2 ounces bittersweet chocolate, coarsely chopped
Dash of salt
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract

Stir the cornstarch into the hot water and continue stirring until completely dissolved, about 1 minute.

Pour the cornstarch mixture into a small saucepan and add all other ingredients except vanilla. Turn the heat to medium-high and whisk constantly until mixture starts to thicken, 3 to 5 minutes. Continue whisking until the mixture has the texture of a pudding, about 1 minute. Remove from heat immediately and continue whisking for another minute or so until mixture cools down somewhat.

Divide mixture equally among 6 to 8 standard-sized frozen pop forms. Freeze at least 4 hours before serving.

Storage: Up to 1 week in the freezer or, if serving as a pudding, up to 2 days in the icebox. If using as a pudding, place plastic wrap directly on the surface of each serving to prevent a skin from forming.

ANSWER — Pat Elligson-Millers, Md., wanted a recipe for cooked cabbage slaw in which the cabbage is chopped, cooked, drained, and tossed in a creamy yellow cooked sweet and sour dressing. Thanks to Martha Weaver, East Earl, for sending her family's favorite. She writes that the cabbage is cooked in a pressure cooker but could be made in a saucepan with plenty of water and drained before adding dressing, and brought to another boil.

Hot Slaw

1 cabbage, coarsely shredded
3 tablespoons butter
4-6 tablespoons brown sugar
⅓ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup water
1 tablespoons caraway seed (optional)

Combine all ingredients in a pressure cooker. Cook 5 minutes with regulator rocking slowly. Cool cooker all at once. Makes 4-6 servings. Delicious served with mashed potatoes.

Thanks to Lee Laverty, Mount Joy, for sending a recipe.

Carolina Slaw

1 large head of cabbage, finely chopped
1 medium bell pepper, finely chopped
1 medium sweet onion, finely chopped
2 carrots, grated

Dressing:
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup vegetable oil
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 cup cider vinegar

Combine coleslaw vegetable ingredients: chopped cabbage, chopped bell pepper, chopped onions, and grated carrots in a large serving bowl. In a saucepan over medium heat, combine remaining ingredients; bring to a boil. Simmer, stirring, until sugar is dissolved; pour over vegetables and toss well. Cover and refrigerate until thoroughly chilled. Enough slaw for 8 to 10 servings.

ANSWER — Austin R. requested soup recipes in a jar for gift giving. Thanks to Sylvia King for sending the following recipe. Also, more recipes will be printed next week from Rachel Lantz, Myerstown, and from Sue Hurley, Newville.

Friendship Soup

Layer the following in a quart jar:
⅓ cup beef broth
¼ cup onion flakes
½ cup split peas
½ cup macaroni rings
¼ cup barley
½ cup lentils
⅓ cup rice (not instant)
Finish filling jar with any shape pasta.

Instructions to attach to jar: Brown one pound ground beef or beef stew meat in a kettle. Add contents of jar to kettle with 14 cups water.

If desired, add 1 cup diced celery and 15-ounce can diced tomatoes with juice. Let it come to a boil and simmer slowly until done.

Well Preserved

The Well Preserved news column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and questions.

Vacuum Packaging

Several models of vacuum packaging machines are available to consumers. Some create the vacuum in plastic packaging materials similar to freezer bags while others are capable of removing air from specially designed jars. At first glance, they appear to be nifty machines to enhance food storage with fresher, higher quality food. Closer analysis provides some risks as well as benefits.

How does vacuum packaging work? Producing a vacuum means removing air from the contents of a package.

What are the advantages of vacuum packaging foods for storage? Oxygen in the air promotes certain reactions in foods that cause rancidity of fats and color changes. Removing air may extend the storage time of refrigerated foods, dried foods, and frozen foods.

Are there any risks to vacuum packaging foods? Yes, it may raise the danger of increased growth of disease-causing bacteria such as botulism. Removal of oxygen does not eliminate the possibility for all bacterial growth. The bacteria most likely to be eliminated are ones that cause spoilage in the form of odors, color, sliminess, etc. These are bacteria that need oxygen. However, pathogenic bacteria that cause illness thrive in low-oxygen environments and reproduce quickly in vacuum-packaged foods. Without the competition from spoilage bacteria, some of these pathogens will reproduce even more quickly. Pathogenic bacteria may cause the food to be unsafe and yet show no signs to warn the consumer.

According to Elizabeth Andress, from the National Center for Home Food Preservation, foods that are vacuum packaged must still be refrigerated or frozen at proper temperatures and vacuum packaging is not a substitute for the heat processing of home canned foods.

How should perishable vacuum packaged materials be handled? Practice safe food handling practices at all times.

Refrigeration below 40F is critical for storage of low-acid vacuum-packaged foods that aren't canned or frozen. Vacuum packaged foods only benefit from the reduction of oxygen in the environment. Frozen foods that are vacuum packaged require proper thawing under conditions that minimize bacterial growth. Thaw them in the refrigerator or in the microwave oven. Food thawed in the microwave oven must be cooked immediately.

If the food thaws in the vacuum packaging, an anaerobic environment still exists that can foster growth of anaerobic bacteria. Perishable food that is vacuum packaged should not be out of the refrigerator any longer that two hours total time. Food that needs to be refrigerated without vacuum packaging still needs to be refrigerated even when it is vacuum packaged. Food needs to be packaged under extremely clean conditions with sanitized equipment and work surfaces. Raw meats, poultry and seafood should be cooked thoroughly to recommended temperatures before eating

Can vacuum packaging be used for storing dried foods such as dried nuts or crackers? Products like this are low enough in moisture that bacterial growth is prevented. Vacuum packaging dried fruits, vegetables, and jerky prevents re-absorption of moisture from the air.

Is a vacuum packaging machine needed? One needs to ask if the amount of the investment is worth the uses for the appliance. Initial cost ranges from about $100 to $300 for a home model. Special packaging materials are an additional cost.

Traditional freezing and canning procedures will produce high quality products with reasonable shelf life if proper procedures are used. Storing dried foods in air-tight storage containers will also keep them of high quality for a reasonable period of time for normal usage.

If you have food preservation questions, a home economist is available to answer questions on Wednesdays 10:00 a.m.1:00 p.m., call (717) 394-6851 or write Penn State Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Rm.1, Lancaster, PA, 17601.

SAN ANGELO, Texas — Goats may have been one of the earliest hoofed animals domesticated. For thousands of years goats lived on steep hills and mountainsides. Because goats are very agile and sure-footed, they can survive on lands that are hot and dry, or cold and barren with few plants, where other livestock cannot survive.

Domesticated goats are known to have existed in North Africa and Asia Minor thousands of years before Christ.

Goats provide milk and meat and were brought to American by the early settlers.

Goats are cud-chewing, even-toed, hoofed animals with four compartment stomachs. Goats have hollow horns that are directed upward, backward, and outward. Male goats have beards.

Goats are playful and like to jump and climb with their herdmates. A male goat is called a buck or a "billy" goat. Female goats are does or "nanny" goats. Baby goats are referred as kids.

Most breeds of goats give birth to a single kid, but twins or even triplets are common in some breeds. A kid can stand on its own within minutes of birth and can move with the herd within a few days.

Predators such as mountain lions, coyotes, bobcats, golden eagles, and even domestic dogs prey on goats, particularly young kids. Often specialty trained guard dogs and even guard donkeys are used to protect goats from predators.

Some people say that goats eat tin cans. That isn't true, but they will eat the labels off tin cans. It is this ability to utilize any kind of plant material for food that makes goats so useful in controlling unwanted vegetation.

Goat milk is very nutritious, easy to digest, and used to make many different kinds of cheese. Goats that are raised primarily to give milk are Alpine, LaMancha, Nubian, Oberhasli, Toggenburg, and Saanen breeds.

Goats raise for meat production are Spanish and Boer breeds. Goat meat is very low in fat and cholesterol. For more than 80 percent of the people in the world, goat meat is the most often consumed meat.

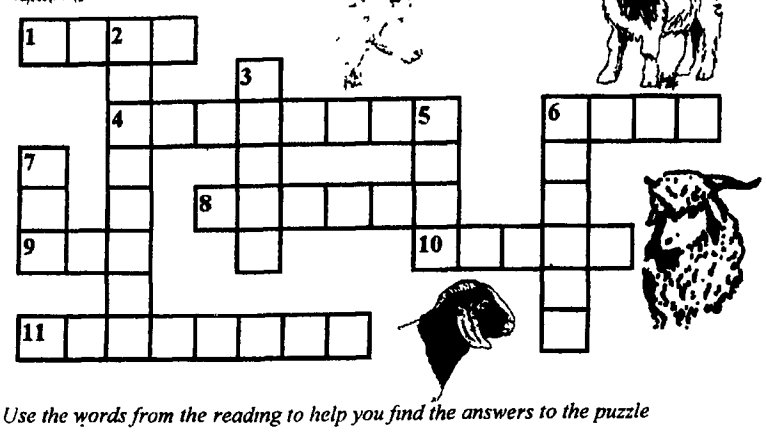
Crossword Puzzle



Use the words from the reading to help you find the answers to the puzzle

Across:
1 Male goat
4 The process of removing the hair from goats
6 Food product from goats
8 Type of goat that gives us very fine fiber used most often in clothing
9 A female goat
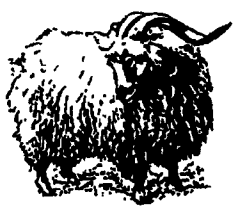
10 State where most mohair comes from 11 Animal that hunts and kills other animals for food

Down:
2 Short, soft, down-like fiber
3 Another name for a female goat
5 Animal that gives us meat, milk, and fiber
6 Hair from an Angora goat
7 A baby goat



Some goats are raised not for their meat of milk, but for their hair. Although all goats have hair, the hair from Angora and Cashmere goats is particularly soft, warm, luxurious, and desired by many people.

Fiber goats have their hair clipped or sheared twice a year.

Hides from goats are used as rugs, the skin is used for fine leather. Gelatin, fertilizers, surgical supplies, medicines, soaps, ceramics, pet foods, horn, and bone handles, luggage, and footwear are just a few of the other products we get from the natural, renewable, and earth-friendly goat.

The information on this page is from Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, San Angelo, Texas.

If you would like to raise goats, contact your county Penn State Extension office. Most counties have 4-H goat clubs, which help to make raising goats fun and easy.

York County 4-Hers On First Place Team In Engineering Bowl

YORK (York Co.) — Andy Stein and Megan Heath of York County 4-H recently returned from the 53rd National 4-H Engineering, Science and Leadership Conference in West Lafayette, Ind., where they were members of the winning Engineering Bowl team.

Everyone competed in an Engineering Bowl, a team competition requiring quick recall and indepth knowledge of the 4-H project manuals and other references. States with fewer than five contestants formed combined teams.

The two York County youth joined four youths from Wisconsin in the competition. which was conducted Monday evening with the finals taking place during the awards banquet.

Andy Stein competed with 10 other 4-Hers in the tractor contest placing fourth in the competition. Adam Ogle from Indiana was the first place participant.

Megan Heath placed 7th in the lawn tractor competition. The contest was won by Joshua Stewart of Maryland. Both contests included a written test and a skillful operation of a vehicle. Safety was emphasized in all phases of the event.

Contestants and accompanying adults spent a day on educational field trips at Purdue University and Indianapolis. Included were workshops in the Department of Electrical Engineering Technology, Agricultural and Biological Engineering, and Aviation Technology and guided tours of Indianapolis 500 Motor Speedway, NCAA Hall of Champions, and Caterpillar Engine Plant.

Megan Heath (left) and Andy Stein (right) of York County 4-H are pictured above with the awards they received as members of the first place team in the Engineering Bowl the 53rd National 4-H Engineering, Science and Leadership Conference in West Lafayette Indiana. The four other team members were from Wisconsin.

The event was conducted by Extension Agricultural Engineers and 4-H professionals from participating states. Rodney and Sara Eisenhart, 4-H volunteer leaders, accompanied the York County 4-Hers.

Maryland 4-H'ers Take Honors At National Event

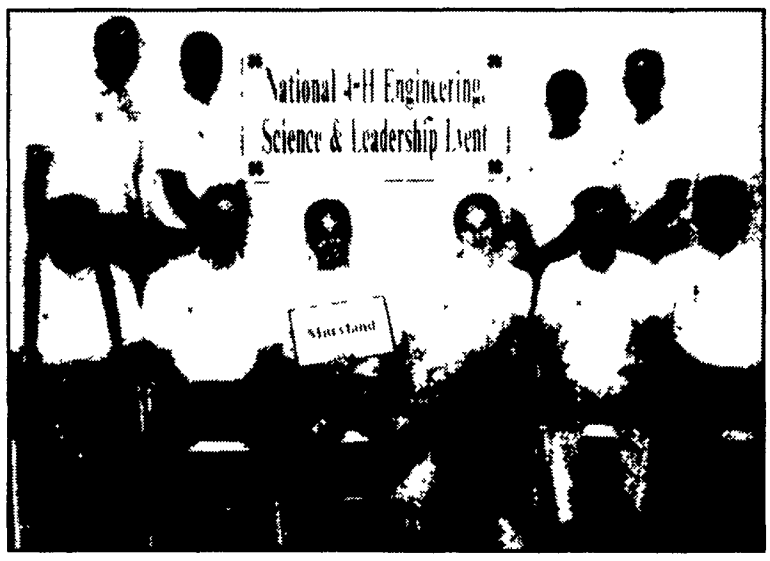
COLLEGE PARK, Md. Four Maryland 4-Hers — Jason Ridinger, Kyle Barber, Josh Stewart, and Samuel Evans — earned plaques in the various competitions at the 53rd Annual National 4-H Engineering, Science and Leadership Event in West Lafayette, Indiana, Sept. 28-Oct.1

The event drew in 59 contestants from 12 states. Areas of competition included aerospace, automotive, bicycle, computer, electric, lawn tractor, small engines, tractor and welding. All of the contestants had won county and state competitions to qualify for the national event. Plaques were awarded to the first three placings in each event.

Jason Ridinger, Taneytown (Carroll County), placed first in the Automotive Safety Event and was a member of that event's champion team. Also capturing a first place was Josh Stewart of Emmitsburg (Carroll County), tops in the Lawn Tractor Event. Samuel Evans of Laytonville (Montgomery County) received a plaque for placing second in the Small Engines Event; and Kyle Barber of New Windsor (Carroll County) was awarded a plaque for placing second in the Small Engines Event.

Contestants and accompanying adults spent a day on educational field trips at Purdue University and Indianapolis. Included were workshops in the Departments of Electrical Engineering Technology, Agricultural and Biological Engineering, and Aviation Technology and guided tours of Indianapolis 500 Motor Speedway, NCAA Hall of Champions, and Caterpillar Engine Plant.

The event was conducted by Extension Agricultural Engineers and 4-H professionals for participating states. John Deere and Company sponsored the Lawn Tractor and Small Engines contests. Lincoln Electric sponsored the Welding contest. Additional funds locally were provided by Crouse Ford Hampstead, Sams Creek 4-H Club, and Progressive Clovers 4-H Club.



Maryland 4-H contestants and adults who attended the National 4-H Engineering, Science, and Leadership Event are pictured above. Back row, from left: Barry Brook, University of Maryland Extension; Gregory Stewart of Whiteford, fifth in Tractor Agriculture; Kyle Barber of New Windsor, third in Automotive and member of champion team; and Josh Stewart of Emmitsburg, first in Lawn Tractor. Front row, from left: Dr. Lee Grant, coach, University of Maryland Extension retired; Jason Ridinger of Taneytown, first in Automotive Safety and member of champion team; Patrick Dibello of St. Leonard, fifth in Computer; Christina Engblom of Severna Park, fourth in Bicycle Safety; Samuel Evans of Laytonsville, second in Small Engines; and Dr. David S. Ross, coach, University of Maryland extension.

You ask ou answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to LGOOD.EPH@LNPNEWS.COM

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it. However, if your question requires someone to mail items to you, you must include your address or phone number for publishing.

Researchers Seek Methods To Control Farm Animal Stress

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — If a farm animal is reared in a stressful environment, its immune response, health and growth may suffer. Often, it may respond with unusual behavior. These indicators can tell producers a great deal about an animal's physical and mental well-being if they know how to read the warning signs.

But knowing an animal's needs is only part of the solution. Livestock producers then require new management practices that improve an animal's welfare, but still provides them a margin of profit.

Several ARS research units are examining management practices as they relate to animal well-being.

The mission of one location, the Livestock Behavior Research Unit in West Lafayette, Ind., is to develop scientifically based measures of animal well-being to improve existing practices and invent new ones that enhance animal well-being and increase the efficiency of dairy, swine and poultry production.

Current projects being carried out by the research unit in collaboration with Purdue University demonstrate the balance between animal welfare and production.

For example, West Lafayette researchers are investigating whether feeding high-fiber supplements containing two forms of beta-glucan products from yeast cell walls in conjunction with ascorbic acid (vitamin C) could serve as alternatives to prophylactic antibiotic use. The supplements were found to improve weight gain, health status and overall well-being in Holstein dairy calves.

One form of beta-glucan used in feed supplements also improved the calves' immune responses. Research is ongoing into whether the supplements might help alleviate transportation stress in dairy calves.

The researchers are looking at the practice of housing sows in crates during long periods of their pregnancies. They found that small alterations of present housing could allow groups of sows more movement and social contact than in gestation stalls and even result in greater weight gains for piglets born to these group-housed pigs.

Other research in West Lafayette has found that through genetic selection, white leghorn chickens can be selected to be non-aggressive and non-cannibalistic and that these changes are reflected in altered brain development.

This change in behavior can help the hen adapt very well to modern poultry industry practices. This process of genetic selection is not only applicable to poultry but could be applied to other farm animals.

Researchers want broiler chickens to space themselves out evenly so they are not crowded together in pens, which may increase social stress.

A team of researchers determined the effect of early environmental enrichment on behavioral and physiological development in chicks. They found that early age visual imprinting during early life promotes brain structure development and improves spatial memory in chicks.

ARS researchers are working to define stress and find solutions to minimize it in a way that strikes a balance between those with shared interests in livestock well-being.

Postcards Preserve Manheim's Past For The Future

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — When several Manheim residents died bequesting hundreds of postcards depicting Manheim, Bea Greiner said, "I knew we had something special and I wanted the public to see it."

Two years later, Greiner holds a handsome bound book compiling Manheim's history. Within the pages are copies of more than 500 postcards.

To Greiner, John Blank, and other historians, a postcard is much more than a card to mail.

Examining hundreds of post cards and reading newspaper copies from the 1800s fascinated Bea Greiner in her work overseeing the compilation of "Postcards of the Manheim Area."

Postcards picturing local scenes, buildings, and people may be commonplace when printed, but in the years to come, the postcards become treasured glimpses into the past.

Postcards reveal the story of a town that evolves from a few buildings on a gravel street to a thriving community. Postcards reveal businesses that once existed and people who played vital roles in a town's development or in everyday life.

One doesn't need to be a history buff or even a Manheim resident to become immersed in the story of a town that was founded by Henry William Stiegel, a famous glassmaker and baron who ended up in debtor's prison.

Some of the postcards were printed to sell or for merchants to give to customers. But, some are one of a kind.

Greiner said, "In the early 1900s, customers could take film to a drug store to have developed into photos or made into postcards."

Before the days of communicating by telephones, postcards were often used to send short messages to family and friends. Today, the postcards that have been preserved offer insight into the lives of ordinary citizens.

The cards often picture family members, their homes, gardens, and fieldwork. Today those postcards reveal how people dressed during that era, the machinery used to harvest crops, and transportation modes such as horse and carriage, trolley, train, and early automobiles.

The messages scribbled on the back of the postcards are often as telling as the pictures in front. For example, one has a written reminder of an upcoming meeting of the Thimble Club.

Not all postcards are identifiable from the photos or from the messages inscribed on the back. This presented a problem for the members who were compiling the book. Many postcards could not be used for that reason.

Greiner said, "This has taught me to identify every photo I have with the date and names of people. Someday my photos are going to be history, and future generations will appreciate the information."

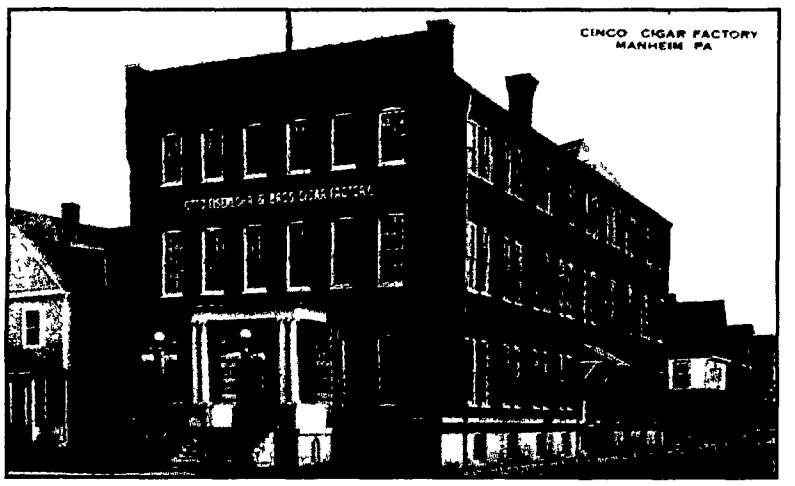
Among the collection pictured in the book are many photos of Manheim flooding.

"Manheim floods whenever it rains, but we had some horrendous ones," Greiner said. She pointed to postcards picturing a 1908 flood. Written information blamed the railroads for causing flooding by improper design of bridges and tunnels, but it has never been proven.

One postcard shows Samuel Hamaker, a Manheim resident who gained notoriety for having the longest beard in the world. The beard measured 6 feet one inch, which was longer than Hamaker's statue. For the picture, Hamaker stood on a box to allow his beard to drape to the floor, but Greiner remembers him tucking his beard inside his coat or shirt while he went about his daily business.

Generic postcards are interspersed among the collection. Blank said that these postcards were marketed in many areas. A space was left for a local merchandiser to insert the town's names. Hence, a postcard with the words "Greetings from Manheim" may have a scene from a different state. It may even be a bit ridiculous, such as one that shows palm trees growing in Manheim.

"The Loggie" was well-known for swimming before the Manheim Community pool was constructed. This postcard is believed to have been taken between 1912-1915.



The cigar factory played a vital role in the town's economy in the late 1800s. Although the exterior has changed little, it is now used as a tool and die company.

But, these idiosyncrasies are part of the history of the era and were typical in many areas.

Included in the book are many postcards with scenes from Penryn and Mastersonville. These tiny villages once thrived with post offices and businesses, but are now considered rural outskirts of the Manheim borough.

The postcard book wasn't the first book endeavor by the Manheim Historical Society. A few years ago, it compiled "Manheim Revisited, 300 Years of Manheim History." It had 1,200 copies of the book printed, which sold out for $75 each.

Greiner poured over old copies of newspapers, starting in 1851, to compile an interesting, readable text.

Newspaper articles also provide unique glimpses into the past.

Blank researched newspaper clippings to compile a family history on a milk processing company his ancestors had that went out of business during the Depression Era.

While members donated valuable time to see the book project finished, it was not without some personal rewards. Both Greiner and Blank came across photos of ancestors.

Greiner said, "One postcard pictures my grandmother holding a baby — who was my mother." The postcard announced the birth of the family's newest addition.

Greiner also discovered a newspaper article about her grandfather's birthday party, which listed every gift such as seven pairs of socks and three handkerchiefs.

It's personal information such as this that help families learn not only community but family history.

Manheim no longer has its

(Turn to Page B24)

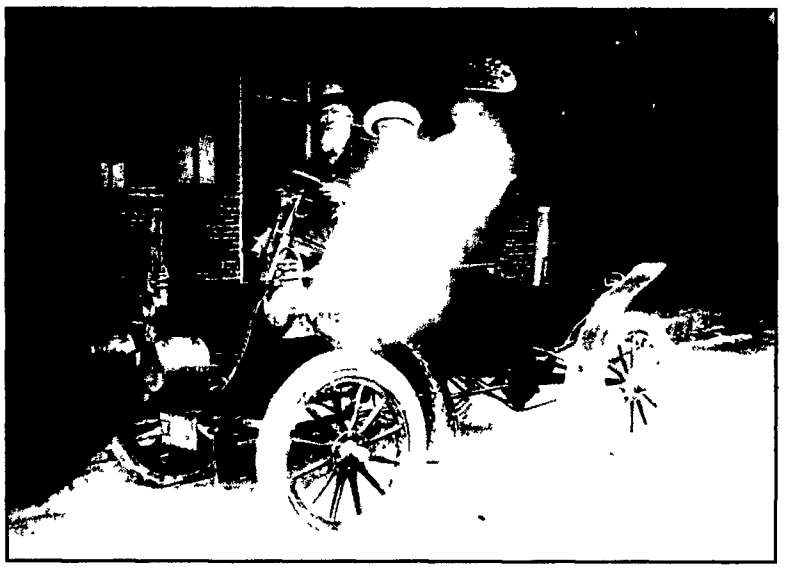
This unusual postcard contained a gold clasp to open, and out tumbles 14 more tiny prints of Manheim scenes. It was distributed by F.H. Rhul Druggist in 1907.



The first car in Manheim was a used rambler owned by John Kock and his family in 1904.

own newspaper, but that doesn't mean its written history is lost.

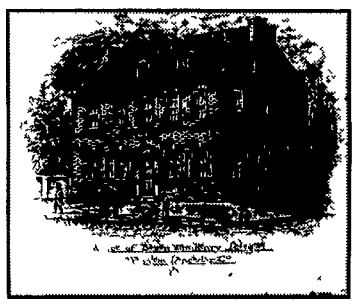
Greiner scours county newspapers and other papers for any Manheim-related news, which she clips and files for the society.

"We collect everything now because that is history. It's our mission to preserve the past for the future," Bea said.

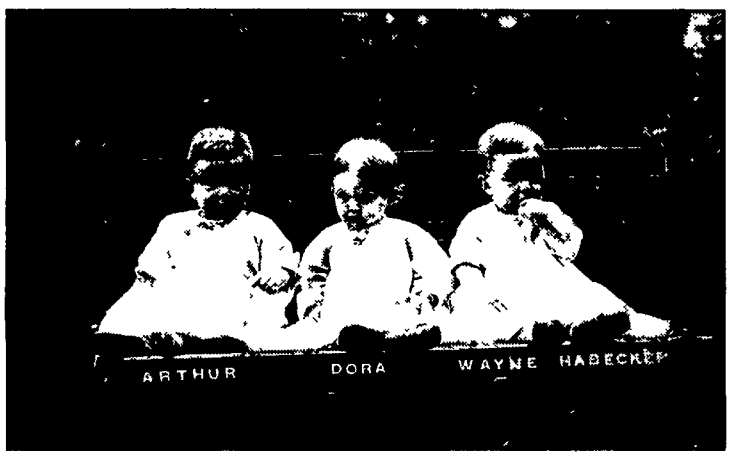
The society has more than 600 members. A newsletter keeps out-of-town members up

(Turn to Page B26)

The 1908 flood ripped up the town's railroad tracks.



Only a postcard sketch of the original Stiegel Mansion built in 1762 remains. The building has been greatly modified in recent years and has lost much of its original charm.



The Habecker triplets celebrated their first birthday Aug. 4, 1911, and were treated like celebrities by Manheim residents.

Japanese Lacquer Beautified Variety Of Objects

The Japanese lifestyle as late as the 19th century seemed to have a lacquer container for just about everyting. Not only boxes but screens and tabletops were decorated with lacquer in elaborate designs.

When they were introduced to Americans at the 1876 Philadelphia Centennial, a new collecting category was born. They were rediscovered by collectors in the 1980s. Before then they were relatively inexpensive.

These days both 19th and early 20th century Japanese lacquer is hard to find, expensive, and reproduced.

Lacquer dates back as far as 300 B.C. Many pieces have survived and have been discovered in excavations. While the Japanese learned the art from the Chinese, it is the Japanese who are considered to be masters. Typically Chinese are the 20th century black lacquer trays and boxes inlaid with mother-of-pearl.

The Japanese used three techniques to decorate even the most humble pieces.

Powdered metals were sprinkled on the object, then transparent lacquer was brushed on.

Sometimes large gold flakes were placed in the lacquer along with silver or gold foil inlays. Often a drawing was made on the raw lacquer and filled in with colored powder in successive layers. Some designs are a three dimensional build-up of molded lacquer. These are covered with gold lacquer. More elaborate examples combine raised inlays with amber, mother-of-pearl, tortoise shell, and ivory.

Even the inside of the lids of boxes are decorated with great detail.

The core of lacquered objects is usually wood. Other times the base may be metal, unglazed porcelain or papier mache'.

Several craftsmen were involved when lacquer was used with furniture. Cabinet-makers put the piece together; a lacquer painter put on the base coat, and finally the decorator. Subjects could be the most detailed court scene or the simplest symbolic designs and nature subjects. Most of the floor screens that come to market these days were done strictly for export.

Some collectors narrow their collecting to "Inro", small medicine boxes. Most common are Inro made in the mid-19th century. The small, flat, oval boxes were originally meant to be worn at the waist by men and attached to the belt with a silk cord. Many an Inro is a complicated, tiny work of art, worked on by an entire family.

There were lacquer boxes to hold toilet articles, games, mirrors and writing implements. To find one along with the articles raises the value.

CLUES: Though many of the small pieces are signed, the signature isn't necessarily that of the artist. it may be signed by the person putting the final coat of lacquer on the piece or its maker.

Most forms of lacquer are being reproduced in plastic. It is lighter in weight than the old wood, based pieces. Knowing how it was made, in layers, helps to tell old from new, where wear exposes construction.

Should you be fortunate enough to find old lacquer pieces, don't pass them up if they have minor damage or are missing hinges. There are restorers who can skillfully take care of damage. Check around or ask a local museum who does their restorations.

Before paying to much for what appears to be an old lacquer piece, see what is being sold in the Oriental gift shops and Pier 1 stores. If you are interested in collecting, you should examine pieces sold at the better antique shows. Subscribe to the auction house Oriental art catalogs to get an idea of prices. And, check out the Miller's International Price Guide for illustrated examples and prices.

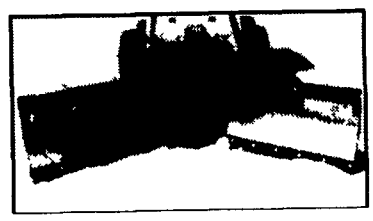
❖ BUSINESS NEWS ❖

Snow-Way Announces New Products

HARTFORD, Wis. — Sno-Way International, Inc., a major manufacturer of snow and ice control equipment, has announced several new additions to its line of products.



Sno-Way perfects sidewalk plowing with its new V blade for skid steers. The Sno-Way V blade comes in 55, 99 or 109 inch widths. This V plow quickly clears sidewalks while minimizing turf damage with a blade that fits the application. It is is built with the same technology, high strength steels and precision that goes into every Sno-Way snow plow.

New snow plows for the commercial market have also been developed. Sno-Way's high profile blades are 29 and 32 inches high. Higher profiles allow for higher stacking capabilities with full utilization of the blade for faster snow removal and placement. The company also offers its patented Down Pressure System and Wireless Remote Control as additional time saving options.

Added to the Sno-Way product line is a new salt spreader that uses skid steer hydraulics for the most efficient operation possible. This spreader has a 10.25 cubic foot capacity with an adjustable speed control and shut off switch. Sno-Way's skid steer hydraulic spreader also spreads from 4 feet to 30 feet, in an even pattern. The skid steer hydraulic spreader has a rugged polyethylene hopper, steel support frame and stainless steel spinner components. The same spreader is also offered with an electric motor.

Kuhn Knight To Expand Facilities

BRODHEAD, Wis. — Kuhn Knight, Inc. is pleased to announce the construction of expanded manufacturing and distribution facilities at its North American headquarters located in Brodhead, Wis.

Construction ground breaking for the 63,600-square-foot building expansion took place on September 24. Project completion is scheduled for March 15, 2004.

The expansion will improve manufacturing efficiency and quality by consolidating manufacturing production into one facility and streamlining operations with new, state-of-the-art technology. It will also provide room for future training and showroom facilities and the expansion of parts distribution facilities. The total cost of this construction project, along with related new machinery procurement is estimated at approximately $5 million. This project constitutes a significant investment and major commitment by Kuhn Knight to manufacture and distribute products in North America in the future.

In addition, Kuhn Knight announced several facility and site improvement plans, including new machinery storage and employee parking areas, fencing, painting, and landscaping. These projects will be funded, in part, through a partnership with the City of Brodhead, which resulted in the development of a TIF district. Kuhn Knight recognized the local authorities in attendance for their support and assistance in this expansion project.

Land O'Lakes Reports Third Quarter Results

ARDEN HILLS, Minn. — Land O'Lakes, Inc. reported its third quarter and year-to-date financial results, while also commenting on individual business unit performance and progress against key strategic initiatives.

Year-to-date, sales are $4.4 billion with net earnings of $42.9 million, compared to sales of $4.3 billion and net earnings of $35.3 million in the first nine months of 2002. For the third quarter, Land O'Lakes is reporting $1.58 billion in sales and a net loss of $1.4 million, compared to $1.4 billion in sales and a net loss of $12 million in 2002.

Land O'Lakes continues to report progress in paying down debt, portfolio management and the building of its branded businesses.

Land O'Lakes paid down term debt by $25 million during the third quarter and made another $16 million payment in October. Year-to-date, principal payments on the company's term debt have totaled $121 million. As Land O'Lakes closed the third quarter, its long-term debt to capital ratio was 3 percentage points better than one year ago.

The company maintained strong liquidity, ending the quarter with a combination of cash-on-hand and unused borrowing authority totaling more than $225 million. Land O'Lakes remained in compliance with all its financing covenants.

Land O'Lakes completed the roll out of two new Dairy Foods products — LAND O'LAKES Spreadable Butter with Canola Oil and LAND O'LAKES Soft Baking Butter with Canola Oil. Consumer acceptance of these soft-from-the-refrigerator products has been strong and sales are running ahead of forecasts. Land O'Lakes also continues to build on the strength of its brands in Deli Cheese, where branded volume was up 3 percent.

In Ag Services, Land O'Lakes CROPLAN GENETICS brand is helping drive a record year in Seed; sales for the AgriSolutions-branded crop protection product line are up nearly 30 percent over a year ago; and the company's feed brands (Land O'Lakes and Purina) remain formidable assets.

Land O'Lakes continued efforts to reduce its invested capital and exposure to market risk in swine. Year-to-date, volume in Farrow-to-finish and higher-risk swine programs was down 12 percent.

The company is continuing efforts to reposition underperforming manufacturing assets in the Upper Midwest. Land O'Lakes completed the sale of its Perham, Minn., plant and will close its Volga, S.D., plant once Davisco Foods International's new cheese manufacturing facility in Lake Norden, S.D., is fully operational. Land O'Lakes has a milk supply and cheese marketing agreement with Davisco in place.

Correction

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Lancaster Farming provides this correction to a misspelling in last week's business news page: Witmer Implement Service, Inc. of Shippensburg has announced a recent addition to its line of quality agricultural products. Witmer is a regional distributor of Faromor Ltd. Ventilation Systems, specializing in natural ventilation. Larry Frey has been given the responsibility at Witmer to grow and expand the Faromor product line. Lancaster Farming apologizes for the error.

Penn State's Beef Sale Teaches Students About Selling Cattle

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Proud! Beef Cattle Sale, Nov. 7 at the University Park campus, should generate upwards of $100,000 for the College of Agricultural Sciences, share highly desired top-quality Angus genetics with beef producers across the East and reaffirm Penn State's reputation as an institution that maintains a first-class breeding operation.

But those aren't the biggest benefits from the first such sale the university has conducted in 15 years, according to John Comerford, associate professor of dairy and animal science and beef cattle coordinator.

"The most important reason why a university like Penn State would own cattle is for their educational value," he said. "Sales give us an opportunity to teach students how to prepare cattle for a sale as well as how to create catalogs and advertisements. For that reason, we developed an undergraduate class in livestock merchandising.

"Students in the class will participate in all aspects of the sale activities, including preparing the catalog, submitting advertisements, reviewing budgets, preparing the sale facility, meeting and interacting with buyers and guests, and providing feedback to help improve our sales in the future."

Not since 1988 have Penn State students experienced a cattle sale. "Our department made a strategic decision a few years ago to begin having regular beef sales," Comerford said. "We have been producing more cattle to get ready for this one.

In addition to purebred Angus cattle, some crossbred animals from the college's commercial herd also will be sold, including some Simmental crossbreds and 4-H steer prospects.

Starting at noon at the Beef-Sheep Center off Orchard Road, approximately 65 head of cattle will be sold. Many of the cows will have calves at their side and all females will have been bred to top A.I. sires. A few bull calves will be auctioned, along with one two-year-old bull. The sale is being managed by one of the college's alumni, Dick Beck, originally from York County, who is in the cattle sale management business in North Carolina.

Beef unit manager Don Nichols stresses that sales are great for students. "We are developing students who will be qualified to merchandise cattle," he said. "They will learn marketing techniques and the subtle things we do to prepare animals for sale. This will teach them something that they can take home. They'll meet people in the business and hopefully make merchandising contacts that might help them later."

For more information about the beef sale, call (814) 863-0831 or visit the Web at das.psu.edu/beefsale/.

PDMP Membership Offers Perks

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Professional Dairy Managers of Pennsylvania (PDMP) is making the Commonwealth's dairy producers an offer they shouldn't refuse, according to PDMP leaders. The organization is launching a six-month membership campaign that has some special initiatives in place to help introduce producers to the benefits of joining PDMP.

"There has never been a better time to join," said President Dave Hileman of Hilecrest Farm. "This is an exciting time for our organization. PDMP has experienced significant growth over the past three years, and this new membership campaign is designed to help the organization continue to grow in size and influence."

The campaign features incentives to encourage new members to join now, explained Randy Huntsman of Pennsylvania Fair Valley Farms in Blair County. Huntsman chairs the membership committee and is a member of the PDMP board of directors.

"Members who join PDMP now pay no additional membership dues until the end of 2004," said Huntsman. "For members who join in October, that's like getting three months of membership free. Dues for 2005 won't be payable until December 2004."

As an added bonus, members who join prior to the PDMP membership meeting in November can attend that meeting for the member rate of $10, a big savings over the regular $50 non-member rate.

The membership meeting will take place Nov. 13 at the Paul Dotterer and Sons Farm in Mill Hall, Clinton County. Titled "Growing Forages for Milk and Money," the meeting will feature a presentation on forages by Randy Shaver of the University of Wisconsin, plus a tour of the Dotterer's dairy and custom TMR operations. The PDMP Research and Development Committee will also announce the results of its 2003 corn silage research project, weather permitting.

Huntsman encourages producers interested in PDMP to join in time to attend the meeting. "Attending a membership meeting is always a great way for producers to experience some of the educational and networking benefits of belonging to PDMP," said Huntsman, adding: "Forage quality is a timely topic and so this meeting will be of particular interest to all producers."

PDMP objectives focus on promoting a favorable dairy business climate in Pennsylvania for progressive dairy producers.

"Members of PDMP are defined by attitude and learning styles, not by farm size or location within the state. Our members want to improve their business and management skills so they can be more productive," Hileman said.

To receive a membership application to PDMP, visit the organization's website at HYPERLINK "http://www.das.psu.edu/user/pdmp" www.das.psu.edu/user/pdmp or call (888) 373-7232.

BQA Certification Meeting Set

LIGHTSTREET (Columbia Co.) — Beef producers can be certified or recertified through the Pennsylvania Beef Quality Assurance (BQA) program on Monday, Nov. 17, at the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in Lightstreet, Columbia County.

A meeting at 6:30 p.m. will be for producers needing to be recertified. A second meeting, at 7:30 p.m., will offer first-time training toward certification. Chute-side training will be conducted at a later date.

The extension office is located on Sawmill Rd., just north of I-80 at exit 236.

For more information, call Dave Hartman (570) 784-6660 ext. 12.

Md. Horse Industry Board Issues Grant

LEESBURG, Va. — The Marion duPont Scott Equine Medical Center, one of three campuses that comprise the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, has been awarded a $5,000 grant from the Maryland Horse Industry Board.

Grant funds will be applied toward equipping a new collaborative research laboratory based at the College's Leesburg campus. Collaboration among the Equine Medical Center, the VMRCVM's College Park campus, and Virginia Tech's "MARE Center" (based in Middleburg, Virginia) will enhance abilities to expand research that will promote the health and well being of the horse.

"The support from the Maryland horse industry through the Maryland Horse Industry Board will ensure the success of the regional college's equine research program," said Dr. Nathaniel White, interim director of the Equine Medical Center. "This support will enable the Center to obtain instrumentation, which is currently needed to complete state of the art equine research."

Farmstead Cheesemaking Workshop Set

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. — The Regional Farm & Food Project will conduct its second cheesemaking course of the year Tuesday through Thursday, Nov. 11-13.

The workshop, in collaboration with the Northeast Center for Food Entrepreneurship, will take place at Sprout Creek Farm near Poughkeepsie, N.Y. It will be taught by British cheesemaker and teacher Kathy Biss of West Highland Dairy, Scotland.

This hands-on program is offered to farmers and others intending to develop or refine an artisan cheesemaking business. For a workshop application and additional workshop information, please contact the Regional Farm & Food Project (RFFP), (518) 271-0744, farmfood@capital.net as soon as possible.

Workshop participants will gain experience in the practical aspects of the manufacture of a mature, hard-pressed cheese, a bleu cheese, and a surface ripened cheese. The practical experience will be reinforced with discussion of scientific reasons for the various aspects of the processes.

If interest warrants, the course will include a presentation by a New York state farmstead cheese maker on setting up a small-scale dairy plant, from acquiring equipment to jumping over the hurdles of licensing.

The three-day workshop will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. To allow for hands-on experience and individual attention, the course is limited to 12. Preference will be given to dairy farmers in enrollment. Inexpensive lodging will be available on the farm.

Individuals who wish to receive announcements for future cheese making seminars and workshops are advised to contact the Regional Farm & Food Project.

Mt. Airy Lumber Joins Sustainable Forestry Program

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Mt. Airy Lumber Company in New Providence has become a participant in a program designed to promote sustainable forestry practices in Pennsylvania.

The Sustainable Forestry Initiative® (SFI) progrm was developed by the American Forest and Paper Association (AF&PA), a representative organization for the forest products industry. The SFI program currently operates in 37 states across the country and four Canadian Provinces.

Mt. Airy Lumber Company operates under the direction of Fred Schneider.

Student Engineering Competition Winners Announced

ST. JOSEPH, Mich. — The American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE) has announced the winners of the third annual Environmental Student Design Competition. The 2003 G.B. Gunlogson Environmental Design Student Cometition, which was conducted July 30 in Las Vegas, comprised two options.

The first, Treatment System for Sugary Waste, required students to design a small-scale treatment system for food-processing waste. Claiming top honors in this portion of the competition were Patrick Murphy, Vincent Stout, and Mark Mommsen, from Iowa State University. Runners-up in Option 1 of the Environmental Design Competition were Julia Valigore, Peter Gehres, Aaron Duffy, Ryan Stokes, and Brian Henslee, of The Ohio State University.

Option 2 of the competition, entitled "Fountain Wars," required teams to design, build, and test a fountain display capable of meeting specific design goals. Brad Heilwagen, John Liszka, Emily Poynter, Laura Schutte, and Brad Tadlock, of the University of Illinois, took first place, while second place honors went to the Kansas State University team of Sarah Fjell, Jeff McPeak, Chris Nichols, Tom Robison, Brian Severin, and Matt Steele.

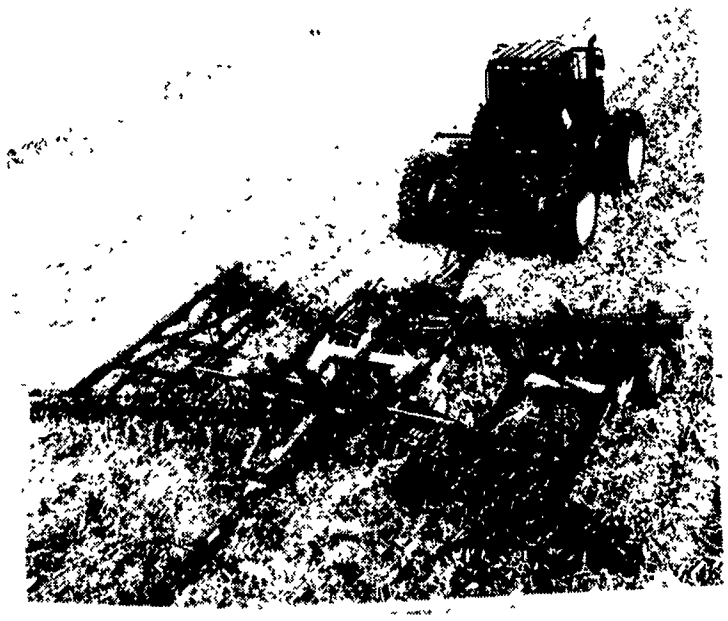
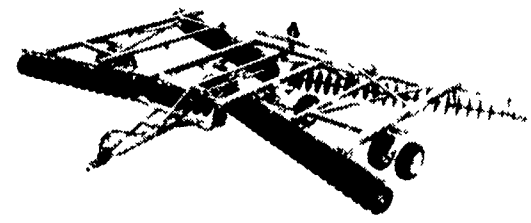
CLASSIFIED INFORMATION

(But We'll Share It With You Anyway)



KRAUSE NOW OFFERS 3 AGRONOMIC CLASSES OF DISC HARROWS TO HELP MANAGE YOUR LAND

- Taking this agronomic approach allows farmers to choose the disc harrow to match his operation and reach his goals
- Krause offers disc harrows in 3 agronomic classes to size and incorporate residue, improve soil tilth and provide quicker soil warm-up in the spring – all key factors in maximizing yield potential.



CLASS I
Seed Bed Finishing
(Models – 7300 Series, 2200 Series)
- 100-140 Lbs. per Blade ~ 22" Blades
- Moderate crop residue management
- High speed tillage/leveling

CLASS II
All-Purpose
(Models – 7400 Series, 4995)
- 140-210 Lbs per Blade ~ 22" or 24" Blades
- Primary tillage or seed bed finishing
- Heavy crop residue management

CLASS III
Primary Tillage
(Models – 2400 Series)
- 210-250 Lbs per Blade ~ 24" or 26" Blades
- Primary tillage / extreme conditions
- Heavy crop residue management
- Excellent finishing disc

HOOBER

HOOBER, INC.
FOUR LOCATIONS

Helping You Through

- Service- Hoober has 9 service technicians between the McAlisterville and Intercourse locations that are factory trained to work on Axial-Flow combines. Repairs are made quickly and accurately.
- Parts – Transferred between our four locations everyday and we have daily pickups at the Philadelphia parts depot. We will do everything we can to get the parts you need – FAST!
- Inventory – Hoober has an excellent selection of locally traded pre-owned combines that are priced to give Mid-Atlantic farmers the best value for their dollar.
- Financing – 0% Financing Until Sept. 1, 2004 on all used combines and heads!
- Experience – Hoober brought Axial-flow combines to the east in 1977 and our employees have been working with Axial-flow technology ever since. We'll help you get the most from your machine.

Call Hoober today for all your combine needs!

CLUTCHES/GEAR REDUCTION ASSEMBLIES

Our Specialty
We stock them, stock the parts, pinions, gears, bearings, seals & gaskets, splined out puts, shafts, housing adaptors/reducers, and pilot bearing holders. With little or no changes, these new clutch/gear reduction assemblies could fit your gas or diesel engine - 50-100hp. Five different gear ratios. A valuable link between your engine and power take-off shaft equipment.

CLUTCH / 5.8:1 Planetary Gear Reduction Assemblies
For 8-30 HP

Engines
Fits most — Honda, Robin, Kohler, Kawasaki, others (1–2 cyl.)
- Fits most standard crankshafts – 1", 1 1/8", 1 7/16"
- Aluminum Castings/Housings
- Ball & roller bearings, hardened gears

Portable Tractor Saw

Cut cordwood, pulpwood, firewood, ties or any other type of wood anywhere Hook it up to your 3 point hitch, attach the PTO and move the Woodsman Saw to any location. As soon as you place a log on the sturdy 40" table, you'll get the feel of balanced-torque action. A light hand pressure moves the log into the blade, release the pressure and the spring loaded table rocks back on dual roller bearings, ready for the next cut Built on a rugged steel frame, the Model 250 is engineered for years of heavy duty use

Model 250 Specifications

Tractor hitch linkage	3-point hitch
Saw blade	30" diameter
Table	40" x 10 1/2", mounted on dual roller bearings
Operating speed	1300 RPM
PTO speed	450 RPM
Depth of cut	12"
Drive	Matched V-belts
Shaft	Mounted on sealed, self-aligning ball bearings
Overall dimensions	38" x 44" x 44"
Safety shields	On blade & PTO shaft

GEHL

YOUR LIVESTOCK IMPLEMENT LINE Since 1859

Proven Performer

Gehl's Scavenger® Spreader delivers the performance you need year after year, with increased durability and outstanding application control. All thanks to the following features.

- Heavy-duty round core auger with segmented paddles to blend manure. Powered both up and down to ram through heavy loads and break up bridging.
- Special "V" tank design to handle solid, heavy bedded, semi-solid, self-leveling and liquid manure.
- Adjustable auger and expeller speeds spread more types of manure.
- Variflow™ discharge featuring square-tooth expeller paddles for smooth, even spreading at the rate you choose.

Cash Rebates up to $2,000

The #1 Name In Feedmaking

Gehl Mix-All® portable grinder-mixers have been leading the industry for over 35 years. Now available with Gehl's famous hammermill or a commercial-grade roller mill to produce the best possible feed for your livestock.

- Total hydraulic control - Self-contained hydraulic system allows infinite speeds to power the discharge conveyor, unloading auger and in-feed attachments.
- Remote controls - Operate the unloading conveyor from the tractor seat or from the rear of the machine.
- Electronic scales - For precise ration weighing.
- Customize your machine - With a wide variety of options and attachments.

Cash Rebates up to $700

TK crawlers work where conventional tractors can't

Minimum slip

Since tracks keep slippage to a minimum, they boost performance The tractor is capable of pulling its own weight As a result, it can pull and drive wider implements than a conventional rubber tired tractor of the same horsepower That increases efficiency and lowers operating costs

A TK crawler turns tighter than conventional tractors, too That's a big advantage in cramped quarters or when making headland turns

For extended road transportation, TK tracks can be fitted easily with clip-on steel pads or "street plates"

Low APR Financing for 36 Months Available

MF 481 Tractors

THE ONLY THING LIGHTWEIGHT IS THE PRICE.

Tipping the scales at more than 3 tons, the 69 PTO hp MF 481 outweighs the competition by more than half a ton. And with 24.6 gpm total hydraulic flow, the MF 481 outpumps competitors, too. Yet, for such a heavy tractor, the MF is remarkably light on your wallet.

Visit your Massey Ferguson dealer today, and get the heavyweight performance you want, with the lightweight payments you need.

- 75 hp Perkins Fastram diesel engine
- Available in 2- or4-wheel drive
- 24.6 gpm hydraulic flow - as much as 50% higher than competitors
- Standard 2-spool auxiliary hydraulic valve
- 8F/2R sliding gear transmission; optional 8F/8R synchronized shuttle
- 4,630-lb. capacity 3-point hitch, with standard telescopic stabilizers
- Spacious, semi-flat operator platform
- Deluxe spring-suspension seat with retractable seat belt

*Payments based on approved credit from AGCO Finance, with $2000 down and 60 monthly payments at 4.9% fixed interest rate.

AGCO FINANCE

MF 231S Tractors

GETS DOWN TO WORK. KEEPS DOWN YOUR PAYMENTS.

The 45 engine hp MF 231S-2 delivers powerful performance, versatility, efficiency and quality, so you can tackle most any job - from light tillage and mowing to haying and loading. And you get all this productivity at a price that fits your budget.

Visit your Massey Ferguson dealer today, and see how affordable the MF 231S-2 can be.

- 3-cylinder, 2.7 l Perkins Fastram diesel engine
- Live 540 PTO with dual-stage foot clutch
- 8F x 2R transmission
- Legendary Ferguson hydraulics
- Power steering
- 3120 lbs. 3-point hitch capacity
- Folding roll-over protection structure
- Adjustable spring-suspended Grammer seat

*Payments based on approved credit from AGCO Finance, with $2000 down and 60 monthly payments at 4.9% fixed interest rate.

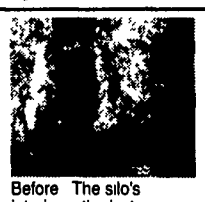
WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS
Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylage, it is time to SHOTCRETE

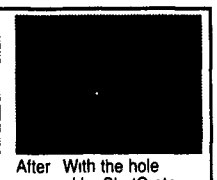
RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increase useful life
- Economical



Before The silo's interior with plaster damage and stave exposed

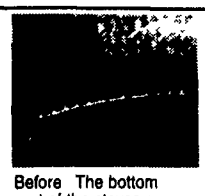
After The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick, tough surface will protect stored feed.

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface

Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall


After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made... quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original



Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away

After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

S&S Silo Service Has More than 20 Years Experience Recoating Silos With ShotCrete. Call Us Today For An Estimate

Everlast is stronger.

Everlast makes metal roofs and sides that are substantially stronger than it's competition. Everlast II does not buckle as easy during erection, less popping and buckling while walking on it. Higher wind and snow loads. More attractive.

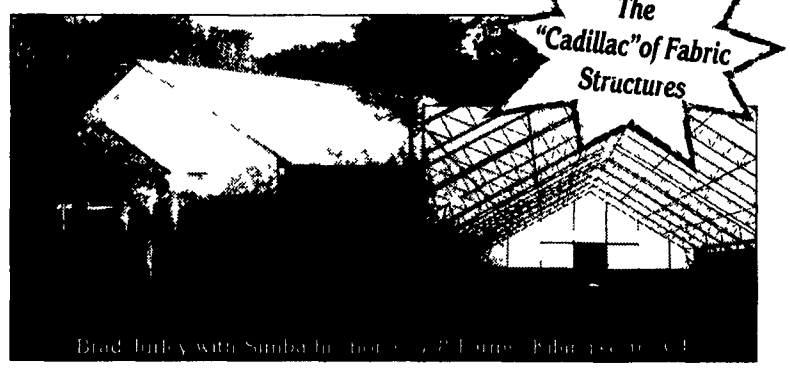
You Must Hear what Brad says:

"I couldn't be more pleased with my riding arena!"



"I knew what I wanted and I found it! After extensive research I knew I needed a fabric structure from We Cover. The facts that made my decision were:

"The Engineering – when I saw their heavy built trusses and engineered drawings, I knew their building would hold up to the Atlantic Coastal winds and snow.

"The Lighting – I can ride my horse in the natural light with no shadows to spook my horse.

"The Design – The Building has straight side walls giving me plenty of clearance for riding. The fabric is in 12' panels and each panel is tightened by a ratchet system. Add to the this the convenient overhang and a sensible ventilation system. These excellent features combined with the many options of this building package make it a real winner!

"My local building engineer is so impressed, he says he will never again recommend a traditional building for an indoor riding arena. "I recommend you call We Cover today!"

The strength, integrity, and appearance of a solid building along with the lighting and construction advantages of a fabric structure.

EVERLAST II EVERLAST II EVERLAST II

Metal Roofs Aren't Created Equal

EVERLAST II IS BETTER:

- it is galvanized heavier, like old times.
- it is heat formed, less paint cracks.
- is cut while hot, prevents early edge rust.
- won't scratch as easy, paint is harder.
- won't bend or buckle as easy stronger design.
- laps are tighter, and virtually invisible.
- nail/screws seal better, ribs fit tighter to head.
- zinc phosphate, not chromate under paint.
- still priced about the same or less.

EVERLAST II
is excellent for houses and barns.

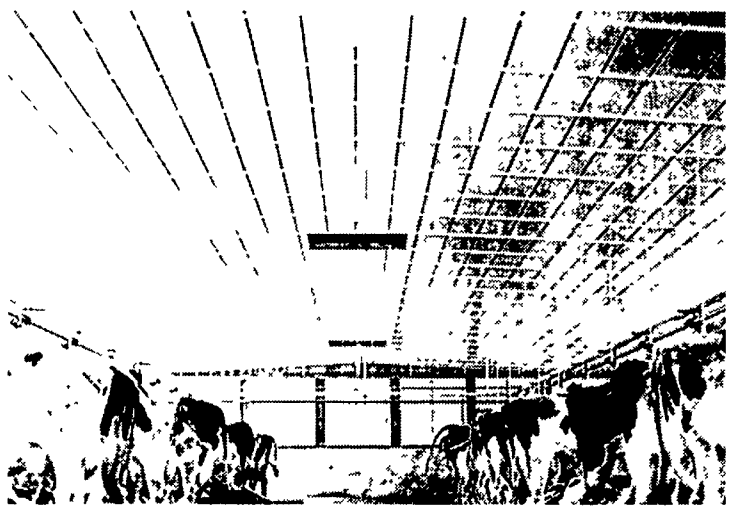
– Ceiling systems designed for your dairy, swine, and poultry facilities, as well – as shops, warehouses, garages, arenas, and more.

Tired of working in a cold, noisy shop?

These ceiling systems are designed to hold any amount of insulation, and with insulation above, produce sound reduction qualities much greater than steel

Is the banding in your hog or poultry barn deteriorating?

Let us replace them with our heavier polyester bands which do not stretch or become brittle over time.



Are you frustrated with the birds in your implement shed?

Get the problem under control with a triply ceiling, as well as greatly improving the lighting.

Contemplating a drop ceiling?

Demand a triply ceiling above your drop ceiling if there is insulation being installed. This will serve as a vapor barrier along with permanently preventing falling insulation.

Providing the Ag industry with a very durable, attractive, waterproof, noncorrosive, alternative to conventional ceilings at a fraction of the cost.

BEEF TIPS

The most outstanding and widely recognized maternal trait that has been passed on by European Simmentals is milking ability. An average, mature Simmental cow produces 16 to 24 pounds of milk per day as compared to 10-15 pounds from the average "Black Baldy" cow.

WANNA MAKE MORE MILK?

Switch to Mark Hershey Farms' NUTRIFINE™ GROUND SHELLED CORN!

1. Proven better nutritional utilization than competitors' processed corn products.
2. New customers have experienced average milk gains of 3 lbs. per cow, per day.
3. Feed consistent, dry corn year-round.
4. Prevent mycotoxins and storage loss by feeding dry corn over high-moisture corn.
5. We can show you how feeding our corn will save you $$$ in the long run.
6. Store your corn at our mill and pay no storage fees if we grind your corn.

1995 International 4700 low profile, original owner, 61,000 orig. miles. Never seen snow or salt. Only used to pull my 4-horse trailer. T444E eng. (Ford powerstroke 7.3), 5 speed spicer, under CDL, hydraulic disc brakes. Loaded! Air ride, air ride seats (2), AC, cruise, tilt wheel, PW, Power Locks, $10k in chrome, stainless & aluminum. $7k double Eagle sleeper. Incredible show truck, sadly for sale. Sorry to see my "baby" go. Ultimate gooseneck hauler or would make great landscapers dump. $25,000 obo.
